VAX NOT NEEDED FOR KIDS BELOW 12: EXPERT

Virologist Dr Gagandeep Kang said there is not enough data to suggest jabs could help those in the 5-12 age group. Dr Kang, who teaches at the Christian Medical College, Vellore, said healthy individuals under 15 years should only get vaccinated once we know which vaccines will give them the broadest protection. But those with comorbidities must get vaccinated, she said. Her comments come as the Centre mulls expanding vaccine coverage to those below 15

CJ-led bench to hear hijab pleas

To be taken up at 2.30 pm today; women in several states stand in solidarity with K'taka girls

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A full bench of Karnataka High Court, headed by Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi, will hear the pleas on the hijab row at 2.30 pm on Thursday.

The full bench was constituted on Wednesday after the single-judge bench of Justice Krishna S Dixit, which was hearing the pleas earlier in the day, passed an order to place the matter before the CJ to consider constituting a larger bench. The three-judge bench will also include Justices Krishna S Dixit and JM Khazi.

"All these matters have given rise to certain Constitutional issues in the light of some aspects of personal law. Many judgments of three high courts have been cited and more than half a dozen judgments of the Apex Court have also been referred to. Regarding the importance of the questions that are debated, the court is of the considered opinion that the papers be put at the hands of the Chief Justice to consider if a larger bench can be constituted in the subject matter," Justice Dixit said.

Some students from Udupi district have filed petitions challenging the order passed by the State Government on February 5, prescribing uniforms for schools and colleges. The counsel for the petitioners urged the bench to pass an interim order. However, opposing any interim order, Advocate General Prabhuling K Navadagi requested the court to hear the matter and pass a final order.

In its objection filed to the petitions, the State Government contended that the petitioners do not have any enforceable right or special privilege to invoke the extraordinary jurisdiction of the High Court under Article 226 of the Constitution.

The petitioners, in the guise of their demand for wearing hijab, or any other dress code other than the one prescribed by the college administration, have unnecessarily knocked the doors of the high court, the government contended.

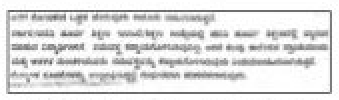
MINISTER SAYS NO RELIGIOUS SLOGANS ON CAMPUSES

Bengaluru: Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh said religious slogans like 'Jai Shri Ram' and 'Allah-hu-Akbar' should never be encouraged on campuses of educational institutions. Further, he also said the government would not spare any miscreants, as no one can take the law into their own hands.

Uniform not must, says PU dept website, contradicts govt stand

VINCENT D'SOUZA @Mangaluru

AT a time when the hijab issue has spiralled across the state, with the government and college authorities insisting that it does not conform with the rules on uniforms, the Admission Guidelines-2021-22 posted on the Department of Pre-University Education (DPUE) website not just states that the uniform is not mandatory, but also points out that some college principals and managements making uniform mandatory is a violation of rules. It also says that such matters will be considered seriously.



Guidelines on the DPUE website stating uniform is not mandatory

This is in stark contrast to the statements issued by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and Primary and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh that a uniform is mandatory and that the rule even existed during the Congress regime. But, going by the DPUE website, the state did not have any rule until the government issued an order on February 5, mandating uniforms stipulated by the colleges.

A few months ago, a group of Muslim girls studying in the Government PU College in Udupi had sought permission to wear the hijab inside classrooms. This was one of the few colleges that had banned the hijab. When the college refused to accede to their demand, the girls turned up at the college wearing the hijab, but were not allowed to enter classrooms. Soon, many colleges followed suit.

A few Deputy Directors of Pre University Education (DDPU) in the state, whom TNIE spoke to, were fully aware of these guidelines.

Phase I polls today, UP holds the key to Rashtrapati Bhavan

SHAHID FARIDI @New Delhi

THE seven-phase elections in India's most populous state — Uttar Pradesh — kicks off on Thursday. Voters of UP will not only choose the next government in Lucknow, but also play a decisive role in the election of the President of India scheduled for July this year.

The BJP-led National Democratic Alliance (NDA) has a clear edge over the Opposition as per their strength in Parliament and state assemblies. Uttar Pradesh, where the BJP has a three-fourth majority in the outgoing Assembly, contributes a big chunk of votes for the party in the Presidential electoral college. The party, therefore, has to win the state comfortably to retain its advantage and get its man in Rashtrapati Bhavan.

A study of the electoral college reveals that the NDA has a total of a little over 1.5 lakh votes from all the states minus UP. The NDA's brute majority in UP Assembly contributes 65,000 to its kitty. This takes NDA's state vote tally to over 2.1 lakh votes. Add to this the Parliament votes (2.3 lakh in Lok Sabha and 75,000 in Rajya Sabha) and the total NDA votes go up to 5.2 lakh. This, along with the votes of Independents in states and in Parliament help the NDA cross the majority mark. The total value of votes cast by all elected MPs and MLAs in Presidential election is 10,98,903 with 5,49,452 as the half-way mark.

The opposition United Progressive Alliance (UPA), led by Congress, has 2.3 lakh votes in states. This includes the Aam Aadmi Party which is not part of UPA but is likely to vote against the BJP candidate, and All India Trinamool Congress of Mamata Banerjee who had recently declared that there was no UPA. She too is likely to vote for the Opposition.

CITY'S TRAFFIC CONGESTION LEVEL DROPS

Falls from 6th rank to 10th globally

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

NOTORIOUS traffic jams are almost synonymous with Namma Bengaluru. But there may be something to cheer. According to TomTom Traffic Index-2021, Bengaluru is the 10th most congested city in the world. The good news is that the city has fallen four places from last year's 6th spot, and witnessed congestion reduced by 3 per cent.

The index also showed that the city recorded a 32 per cent average decrease in congestion since 2019. However, the ranking was done during pre-Covid period, which may have accounted for the sharp decrease in congestion in Bengaluru.

The index studied detailed traffic trends in 404 cities across 58 countries.

Meanwhile, the number of vehicles owned has gone up, with the report attributing the increase to residents finding it an easy way to maintain social distancing. The worst day for traffic congestion in Bengaluru, according to the report, was during the monsoon, on October 9. With much of the city's roads inundated and waterlogged, traffic was at a snail's pace in the city on that day.

Compared to other Indian cities, Bengaluru performed well. Mumbai was ranked fifth, while Delhi and Pune lower than Bengaluru were still in the Top 25. However, they had recorded a little to no percentage decrease in traffic congestion.

"We believe that policy makers need to be cognisant of the positive change, and implement holistic norms aimed at bettering road infrastructure. This will further take down congestion levels, and promote alternative sustainable transport modes, which could improve emission levels too. Adoption of better technology that utilises real-time data, bold investments and fearless policy decisions are the key to the transformation," said Sachin Tyagi, the strategic automotive business development manager for the company.

After decade-long wait, man gets new pair of hands

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

IN 2011, a gruesome high-tension electrical burn accident at a rice mill in Ballari resulted in 34-year-old Byranna (name changed), a boiler operator, losing his hands. Doctors had to amputate both his arms just below the elbow. Five years after enrolling for a hand transplant in Kochi's Amrita Hospital, his wait came to an end when a donor was found recently.

The transplanted hands belonged to Jacob (name changed). The 25-year-old deceased youth, an accounting student at Kottayam, was suffering from an illness and was declared brain dead at a hospital in Kochi on September 25, 2021.

"It was an emotional time for us when we lost our son. He had spent eight days in the ICU. We were mentally and physically lost. We received a request for donating his hands and somehow we agreed to it. Now, we are proud and hope it is a moral to the public," said Jacob's father.

After the pair of hands were retrieved, the team of surgeons rushed Byranna into a marathon surgery of 16 hours, the very next day.

"It was a very complicated surgery because only one-third of the natural length of arm muscles were present in the recipient. We had to bring the rest of the muscles from the limbs of the donor and overlap those over the existing muscles of the recipient's hands. Even the union of the two bones was complicated as we had to bend the joining plates exactly to the shape of the bones," said Dr Mohit Sharma, Professor, and Head, Centre for Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery, Amrita Hospital, adding that it was important to reduce the time between the cold perfusion of the donor's hands and their warming up later by restoring the blood supply.

> He will also have to take sessions of nerve stimulation, muscle strengthening exercises, occupational therapy and application of various types of functional splints to facilitate his daily activities
> Dr Subramania Iyer, Amrita Hospital

The surgery was successful and Byranna was discharged from the hospital after a few weeks of being in the ICU, said Dr Subramania Iyer, Professor, and Chairman for Center for Plastic & Reconstructive Surgery, Amrita Hospital.

"He now needs to undergo a daily routine of active and passive physiotherapy. He will also have to take sessions of nerve stimulation, muscle strengthening exercises, occupational therapy and application of various types of functional splints to facilitate his daily activities. This will continue for at least one year," Dr Iyer explained.

J&K STUDENTS KEEP FINGERS CROSSED AS HIJAB ROW RAGES

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

THE ongoing Hijab controversy has put students from Jammu and Kashmir in Bengaluru colleges in a spot as universities have reportedly started background checks again on the instruction of the police.

Background checks of J&K students were last conducted after the Pulwama terror attack on February 14, 2019.

Around 25,000 students from Jammu, Kashmir and Ladakh are pursuing nursing, engineering and other courses in Karnataka, of which more than 10,000 are in Bengaluru.

"This is the first time that we have been asked to give our details in Google forms. There are options listing foreign students or from J&K. Initially, we though that it was part of the new semester enrolment, but then this is limited to some colleges. Exams are going on in many colleges and yet students have been asked to submit their details. We thought that it was out of safety issues as the last time we were asked for our details was during the turmoil in Kashmir valley. Now they are asking us during the ongoing Hijab row," a member of the Jammu and Kashmir students association told The New Indian Express.

Many students also pointed out that universities have been asking them for background details since February 3.

Some students stressed that when the college has all their details at the time of admission, then what is the need ask for them again. The students are being asked to give details, including name, contact number, address, courses they are pursuing, since when they are in the college and in Bengaluru, contact details of those in Jammu, Kashmir and Ladakh.

While staffers from universities asserted that it was a routine exercise, some others denied collecting details.

HKBK College of Engineering principal Hussain A said the Govindapura police station had approached them asking for details. "I believe it is a routine exercise. And when the police asked, we did not cross question, but cooperated," he said. Despite repeated attempts, police inspector Prakash from Govindapura police station, was not available for comment.

City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant clarified that details of only foreign students were being collected and it was incorrectly assumed that details from students from J&K also needs to be collected. "We have not asked for any such details," he clarified.

Higher Education Minister Dr C N Ashwath Narayan said, "We have not issued any directions for collecting such details. We don't have to ask also, we have details of all students with us. Such data collection is not correct."

Aam Aadmi Party workers stage a protest at the primary health centre in Doddabettahalli on Wednesday demanding that it be reopened

After protests, PHC to reopen after 4 years

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

A disused primary health centre (PHC) in Doddabettahalli will be reopened this week, after residents and Aam Aadmi Party (AAP) volunteers protested its prolonged closure and campaigned for it.

The PHC had been in a dilapidated condition for close to four years, with residents having to travel long distances to access basic healthcare facilities. The local Yelahanka AAP wing took cognisance of the issue and had cleaned up the PHC in anticipation of its reopening last month. However, Yelahanka MLA S R Vishwanath had opposed the move, announcing instead that an orphanage would be built where the PHC was located.

AAP members campaigned against the decision, stating that it was being turned into a political issue after the party got involved. On Wednesday, AAP members gathered outside the PHC, demanding its immediate reopening. Around a hundred volunteers and residents protested, stating that at least Rs 35 lakh was spent by BBMP on building the PHC before it was shut four years ago.

Yelahanka Deputy Health Officer (DHO) Dr Bhagyalakshmi visited the PHC following the agitation, and promised the protesters that the PHC would be opened in a few days. "We've got all the paperwork ready and have permission from the head office to start processing it. The PHC will definitely be reopened soon," she said.

HC allows BMRCL to axe trees

BENGALURU: The Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Ltd (BMRCL) on Wednesday got the Karnataka High Court's nod to axe 680 trees and translocate 568 more to build the Metro line from Nagawara to Gottigere. A division bench of Chief Justice Ritu Raj Awasthi and Justice Suraj Govindaraj permitted BMRCL to go ahead with the permit granted by the Deputy Conservator of Forests for felling of trees. The court, however, said there should be consonance with the tree expert panel. It also directed BMRCL to file an environment impact assessment report over the felling of trees.

App to help people do their bit for schools

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

PRIMARY and Secondary Education Minister B C Nagesh on Wednesday announced that an app -- Namma Shaale, Nanna Koduge – which will allow people to donate to underprivileged schools in Karnataka, is being developed and will be released in a few weeks.

"It will allow anyone to donate money or equipment to schools. The state of education in government schools is poor, and private institutions and the public should come together for the overall improvement of the education quality," he said.

The 'Namma Shaale, Nanna Koduge' initiative was launched on September 5, 2021, by Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

10th February : Mars began an entirely new zodiac cycle recently. It's a perfect moment for making a fresh start in almost any area of activity, so the general advice for the coming period is to work hard, press ahead, take the lead and use every minute as imaginatively – and creatively - as possible.

ARIES
(Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
Everything I've written about your sign this week holds for today - only much more so. So, let me remind you of the vital importance of clear thought, sensible discussion and open lines of communication in absolutely everything, whether your concerns are intensely personal or public and professional.

TAURUS
(Apr. 21 - May 21)
There's no time like the present for sorting out financial problems and claiming the prosperity that you so richly deserve. Work out spending and saving plans over the next couple of days and share your ideas with partners once you've made your mind up.

GEMINI
(May 22 - June 21)
Today's lunar position indicates a time when you may hide yourself away and rest, recharging your batteries in readiness for the coming battles and victories. To do this, though, you may need to duck some of your responsibilities!

CANCER
(June 22 - July 23)
If tensions erupt, they may be difficult to control, mainly because the issues will be obscured behind a fog of confusion and misunderstanding. Tread warily, though, and you'll easily dodge such pitfalls. And, remember, by anticipating the future you can change it to your advantage.

LEO
(July 24 - Aug. 23)
Challenging lunar aspects advise you not to count on certain transactions being finalised on time. A brief hiatus may actually do you good, allowing you to get on and complete the preliminaries or tie up loose ends. A delay is as good as a rest.

VIRGO
(Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
Listen to reason and accept that partners also wish to resolve joint problems. Soon you may expect to receive thanks for past efforts, or plaudits for your more successful endeavours. Such appreciation is no more than you deserve. It will certainly provide a pleasant boost to your confidence.

LIBRA
(Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
The Moon now inaugurates a new three-month period of success and fulfilment, at least for all Librans who are capable of looking on the bright side. Specific areas which will benefit include everything to do with travel, education or the law. It's all a question of tuning in to the larger picture.

SCORPIO
(Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Your sign has stronger associations with money than many of the others, and I believe that, after today, you will begin to feel your business sensibilities stirring. Emotionally your passions will be more alert - you'll be looking for a challenge in a relationship.

SAGITTARIUS
(Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Those of you with major schemes on the go, whether personal or professional should reach a satisfactory turning-point. In love, you'll prefer the company of old and tested companions to new excitement. You have much to learn from people who have already had the experiences which are now coming your way.

CAPRICORN
(Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It looks as if your work or similar responsibilities are about to increase drastically. On the whole, this will be a welcome development even though you may be taken aback by the rate of change. Yet, there does seem to be a great deal happening at the moment which is taking you on to a more positive personal course.

AQUARIUS
(Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Over the next couple of days the powerful and emotional Moon will come to your aid, enabling you to break any deadlocks and shift any obstacles, even those which seemed insurmountable until not so long ago. It's strange how quickly circumstances change when you're looking the other way.

PISCES
(Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Those of you aiming for domestic improvements will find events over the next few days helpful and reassuring, although if major schemes, including a move of home, are on the agenda, there seem to be few signs of real, solid, tangible movement just yet.

MAN HACKED TO DEATH

A gang of miscreants hacked a man to death in Nandini Layout police station limits, on Wednesday morning. The reason for the killing is yet to be ascertained. The deceased Vishwanatha (39), was a resident of Vidyaranyapura and was working in an advocate's office.

Double murder: Killer nabbed at Bidadi bypass

Sneaked into house in dead of night, killed retd IAF man, had a drink

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

BIDADI police cracked the double murder case of Wing Commander Raghu Rajan (rtd) and his wife Asha, and arrested the prime accused, Jogendar Kumar Yadav (21), within 24 hours. Rajan (65) and his wife Asha (60) were found murdered at their villa in Eagleton gated community in Bidadi, on the outskirts of the city, on Tuesday afternoon. The incident came to light when Rajan's son called the security staff to check on his parents as they were not answering his calls since Monday night.

Police said the guards found Yadav at the villa when they went to check on the retired IAF officer. Yadav told them the couple had left for Bengaluru early in the morning. Rajan's son, who was on call, asked the guards to go inside the house and check. When the guards went in, Yadav accompanied them. On seeing Rajan's body, the guard locked Yadav in the drawing-room and came out to alert the police. However, within a few minutes, Yadav and another accused managed to escape by jumping the compound.

"The police teams formed to nab the accused gathered information that the accused was at Bidadi bypass. While police managed to nab Yadav, the other accused, identified as Yadav's cousin Ravikumar Yadav, managed to escape," Ramanagara SP K Santosh Babu told reporters.

Investigations revealed that Yadav, who is from Bihar, had convinced his cousin that they could make a fortune if they murdered the couple. "On Monday afternoon, he had sneaked his cousin into the guest bedroom on the terrace through the stairs in the garden, and kept the door open.

At 7 pm, Yadav informed Asha that he was leaving but went up to the terrace. Till 2am, the assailants waited in the guest bedroom, as Yadav was sure the couple would not come there.

They then entered the house from the terrace and went to the room on the first floor, where Rajan was sleeping. While the cousin held Rajan's legs, Yadav hit his head with a hammer multiple times," police said, adding that they had covered his mouth with a bedspread so that his wife couldn't hear his screams.

Yadav felt giddy and vomited in Rajan's room, as it was the first time he was doing something like this, police said. "After finishing Rajan, the duo picked up a whiskey bottle from the house, went back to the terrace, and consumed alcohol before they returned to kill Asha, who was sleeping in a room on the ground floor, at 5am," police added.

He wanted to transfer money from e-wallet

The duo left the villa at 6am and went to the servants' quarters, where Yadav asked his wife to pack their things as they had to leave in some time. "The killers returned to the villa around 8am and searched for valuables, and had packed gold jewellery they found in a bag. They had taken Rs 50,000 cash from the house, but Yadav wanted to transfer money from Rajan's e-wallet apps to his bank account," the police said. Three months ago, Yadav had reportedly transferred Rs 70,000 to a friend from Rajan's mobile phone. Rajan had a clue that Yadav had done it but had not filed a police complaint. "Assuming that Rajan had a huge amount of money in the account, Yadav had planned the murder. However, Yadav could not gain access. When the guards arrived. In a bid to escape, the accused left without taking the jewels," police added.

Minor raped, CISF prevents trafficking by flight to Delhi

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A MINOR girl from Kolar was raped by an acquaintance in Bengaluru and his attempt to take her to New Delhi on Wednesday was foiled by Central Industrial Security Force (CISF) at Kempegowda International Airport.

The perpetrator and his woman accomplice based in Delhi have been booked under four stringent sections by the airport police.

According to CISF sources, the girl was pursuing her Class 10 in rural Kolar and fell into a trap laid by one Nagesh. "He brought her to Bengaluru under the pretext of helping her with a good job and raped her on Monday. He was forcibly taking her to Delhi with him on Tuesday when he was caught before boarding the flight at 4.30 pm," a source said. He had planned to send her to Dariyaganj to be pushed into flesh trade.

A source said the girl looked "very frightened and distraught" when the duo was passing through departure screening checks for their 4.30 pm flight. Her body language made the security staffers suspicious and question them individually. "On being repeatedly counselled to share if she had any problem, the girl broke down and said the person accompanying her was forcing her to take up a job for Rs 10,000 with an aunty in Delhi. She also narrated the assault," the source added.

The individual duped her and brought her to Bengaluru with the promise of a lucrative job and a better education, said an airport source. Nagesh was assisted by one Lakshmi, a native of Kadapa in Andhra Pradesh, based in Delhi presently.

CISF later alerted the airport police who have booked him and his accomplice under Sections 370 (export or disposal of a person as a slave) and 376 (punishment for sexual assault) of the IPC Act and under Section 4 (punishment for penetrative sexual assault) and Section 6 of the stringent POSCO Act.

Shortage of Covaxin in Kodagu

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Madikeri

KODAGU district has attained over 92 per cent target reach in the vaccination drive, even as the booster dose drive is under way. Over cent per cent target has been attained in first dose vaccination of students aged 15 to 17. However, the second dose of these target beneficiaries has been kept on hold due to short supply of Covaxin vaccines.

"In the district, a total of 34,000 residents are due to take their second dose of vaccine, and senior citizens who are to take their booster dose. The number includes over 12,000 students and the second dose drive for students is on hold due to short supply of Covaxin," confirmed Dr Gopinath, RCH Officer. He, however, shared that the initial reluctant behaviour in taking the jab against Covid-19 has vanished.

Among residents who are due to take the booster dose and second dose, most had recently tested positive, delaying the vaccination process. Nevertheless, over 13,000 residents, including healthcare workers, frontline workers and senior citizens, have taken the booster dose jab so far and sources confirmed that vaccination will pick up pace following the end of the coffee picking season.

Meanwhile, the department is regularly sharing details of residents due to take the booster dose with all Primary Health Care centres, and 800-1,000 calls are being made regularly to alert beneficiaries, especially senior citizens, to take their booster dose jab.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai and cabinet colleague V Sunil Kumar arrive for the cabinet meet at Vidhana Soudha in Bengaluru on Wednesday | NAGARAJA GADEKAL

A day after he returned from New Delhi, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Wednesday started preparations for his maiden state budget, which is likely to be presented in the first week of March.

On Wednesday, he held a series of pre-budget meetings with various ministers and officials from the revenue, higher education, IT/BT, science and technology, skill development, public works, power, information and Kannada and culture departments and discussed schemes and projects to be included in the budget.

The State Government is focusing on amenities and digitalisation in various departments. Higher Education, IT-BT and Science and Technology Minister Dr CN Ashwath Narayan told TNIE that the higher education department at present (2021-22) has a Rs 4700-crore budget. "We have asked for Rs 9,000 crore in this budget. We want to focus on providing better amenities, including toilets, drinking water along with better infrastructure to all government degree and engineering colleges in Karnataka," he said. He also said the department wants to develop better laboratories in government colleges. This time, the focus will also be on DigiShakti, where they will be keen in bringing more digitalisation inside classrooms of government colleges, so that students will get an education on par with those studying in private institutes.

On IT/BT, the minister said the department is stressing on beyond Bengaluru, where they propose to establish research and development centres in every district. "This includes a vaccination research and development centre in Bengaluru in collaboration with Institute of Bioinformatics and Applied Biotechnology (IBAB). Secretariat staffers plan to hold protest during session

BENGALURU: The members of the Karnataka Secretariat Employee Association are planning to stage a protest during the Legislative session which is due to begin from February 14, demanding that the State Government stop recruiting retired employees on contract basis. They are also seeking allowing section officers working in the Secretariat offices to go on deputation to other departments. This could cause some hindrance for the holding of the session.Through a statement, association members also demanded that employees working on deputation at the Secretariat be sent to their parent department, if their service period has completed. They also said that the government must not remove or close posts in any department inside the Secretariat in the name of administrative reforms. ENS

THE cabinet on Wednesday approved a range of rural drinking water projects, including under the Centre's Jal Jeevan Mission, worth Rs 9,200 crore to ensure tapped water to households in over 2,000 villages across the state.

"Earlier, the cost of sharing between the state, Centre and the local bodies was 45:45:10. Since local bodies could not raise funds, we have decided to bear even their 10 per cent from the state, for which loans to the tune of Rs 4,500 crore will be raised from the World Bank, as it was decided in the previous cabinet," informed Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy. The villages in the taluks of Karwar, Kumta, Chikkaballapur, Ramanagara, Magadi, Kalaburagi, and Afzalpur are expected to be benefited by this move. The government has set 2023 as the deadline to complete the work.

18L farmers to get extra input subsidy in 2 days

EXPRESS NEWS SWEVICE @ Bengaluru

IN the next two days, the State Government will deposit the additional amount of the input subsidy towards crop loss compensation directly into the bank accounts of 18.02 lakh farmers.

During the Legislature session in Belagavi in December last year, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai had announced an increase in the input subsidy towards crop loss compensation. As per NDRF norms, Rs 6,800 per hectare is the amount fixed for crop loss in dry land and that has been increased to Rs 13,600.

For irrigated land, it has been increased from Rs 13,500 per hectare to Rs 25,000 and for horticulture crops, it has been increased from Rs 18,000 to Rs 28,000 per hectare.

The State Government had earlier deposited Rs 1252.89 crore into 18.02 lakh farmers bank accounts and the difference amount of Rs 1135.49 crore will be deposited in the next two days. In all, the government has released an input subsidy of Rs 2388.39 crore towards crop loss compensation in 2021-22.

Heavy rains in July, August, October and November last year had caused extensive damage to crops across Karnataka.

Bill to protect 2011 KPSC batch 'probationers' to be tabled

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai-led BJP government will table a Bill to protect the interests of 362 gazetted 'probationers' of the 2011 KAS batch, Group A and B, selected by the KPSC, in the upcoming Karnataka Legislature session which starts from February 14.

Briefing reporters after the CM's cabinet meeting here on Wednesday, Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy informed that the cabinet has taken a decision to accept the 2011 batch 'probationers' list and will place a Bill in the session as part of the procedure.

"All the legal hurdles were being overcome and the draft bill will have the points to convince the court. There were no powers to the government to approve the list under Article 323/2. Hence, the Bill will be placed before the Legislature as part of the procedure and acted upon accordingly," he explained.

In 2014, the government had made a mistake of trying to annul the selection, following the interim report of the CID with regard to malpractice in the said process, without waiting for the final report, the minister noted. But the aggrieved 'probationers' had moved the KAT, which gave its verdict in their favour, which the government accepted in 2015 itself.

Cabinet okays PRR for B'luru, to be executed by pvt party

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI @ Bengaluru

THE State cabinet on Wednesday decided to go ahead with the ambitious Peripheral Ring Road (PRR) around Bengaluru by calling global tenders in a couple of months, and will hand over the project to private parties to be executed under the Build Operate and Transfer (BOT) model.

The government had earlier allocated funds to Bengaluru Development Authority (BDA) to take up the project, but that had not worked. The BDA, which will liaison on the land acquisition process and become the owner of the property after 50 years of lease period, will be liable for revenue sharing from the toll collection. "We will negotiate for 10 to 15 per cent of the revenue generated every year. But the toll fee will be negotiated to fix a reasonable price to help users, including transporters," said BDA Chairman S R Vishwanath, Yelahanka BJP MLA.

"As land acquisition was a daunting task, costing Rs 5,000 crore or so, it was decided bring in private parties to execute the project. But they can collect the toll for 50 years," Law and Parliamentary Affairs Minister J C Madhuswamy told reporters after the cabinet approved the project.

Land acquisition could be done in compliance with the Supreme Court's directives to go with old rates and also negotiate with the farmers, he added. Some farmers had moved the SC, seeking the 2018 guidance value.

Mega project

The 100m wide road along a 71-km stretch connects Hosur Road to Tumakuru Road, and requires over 2,500 acres of land to be acquired, linking its eastern, northeastern and southeastern parts of Bengaluru. As per plan, it is an eight-lane road, excluding the service roads on either side, and also connects to NICE Ring Road.

Bibi Muskan Khan, a student of PES College, Mandya, is eagerly awaiting the court's order on wearing hijab

We should be free to follow our culture, says Muskan

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

A day after saffron shawl-clad students heckled her, chanting 'Jai Shri Ram!' at PES College in Mandya, the burqa-clad girl identified as Bibi Muskan Khan came out in public on Wednesday and said she was unafraid, and stood strong despite the students' attempt to intimidate her.

Muskan, a second-year B. Com student of PES Arts, Science and Commerce College, told reporters in Mandya that she had gone to college on Tuesday to submit her assignment. "When I tried to enter the college campus, a group of male students clad in saffron shawls objected and asked me to remove my burqa if I wanted to enter, or I could go back home. However, I entered the college, parked my vehicle and was on my way to class when some boys intimated me, and chanted 'Jai Shri Ram'. In return, I raised my hand to say 'Allahu Akbar'," she narrated.

She said that even before she came to college, three or four other burqa-clad girls had walked away, crying. "I did not feel scared; I stood without fear and faced them. The college staff was very cooperative and extended their support," she said.

"Every religion has a certain culture, and people should have the freedom to follow it. We are following our culture too," she said, and added that she would wait for the High Court judgment and abide by it.

Meanwhile, several political leaders, religious and community leaders expressed solidarity with Muskan, congratulating her for her courage. Members of the Bahujan Samaj Party visited her house and felicitated her.

The Jamiat Ulema-I-Hind, a socio-religious organisation of Indian Muslims, announced a reward of Rs 5 lakh to her, soon after a video of the incident went viral on social media platforms. The organisation made the announcement on Twitter.

Asked about this, Muskan said she was not aware of any such reward. Meanwhile, several people welcomed the announcement by the organisation, while several others objected to it, saying it would set a bad precedent.

Minister refutes order of events in Mandya

BENGALURU: Primary and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh stated that religious slogans, whether Muslim or Hindu, should not be encouraged in educational institutions. He made this remark referring to the incident in Mandya that went viral on Tuesday, where a Muslim girl was heckled by a group of saffron shawl-clad students, as she entered her college premises wearing a burqa. Allegedly, after the group chanted slogans of 'Jai Shri Ram' in front of the girl, she had responded with chants of 'Allah-hu Akbar'. The minister, though, claimed that the order of events is wrong, alleging, "The students who were chanting, were not intending to gherao the girl. She started chanting 'Allah-hu Akbar' when no one was around her." He added that slogans like 'Jai Shri Ram' and 'Allah-hu Akbar' should never be encouraged on campus.

UDUPI: Some of the six students of the Women's Government PU College in Udupi, who are protesting against not being allowed to wear the hijab, are getting abusive phone calls, claimed Aseel Akram, district president, Campus Front of India, Udupi. He said the parents of some of the girls told him that they are getting abusive phone calls after the college management, headed by Udupi MLA Raghupathi Bhat, released documents containing students details including phone numbers and residential address, to media. However, TNIE could not independently confirm this from students or their families as they were not reachable. ENS

Now, CM's political secy blames women for rape

ENS @ Bengaluru

IN a derogatory statement against women, Political Secretary to the Chief Minister M P Renukacharya on Wednesday said, "Offences against women and rapes are increasing because of the provocative clothes worn by them, which visually stimulate men." Renukacharya, who is no stranger to controversy, expounded this logic to seek support for the government's line that girls need to wear uniforms or clothes that fully cover the body.

Renukacharya was seeking to make a smart repartee to Congress leader Priyanka Gandhi's tweet, in which she had categorically said: "Whether it is a bikini, a ghoonghat, a pair of jeans or a hijab, it is a woman's right to decide what she wants to wear. This right is guaranteed by the Constitution. Stop harassing women."

Renukacharya continued, "Priyanka Gandhi is a woman, a Congress leader... we are not questioning the fundamental rights of women. Kerala and Bombay High Courts have said that uniform is mandatory in schools and colleges... the government has also said the same. Using the word 'bikini' for a girl student's (dress) is not proper." Realising that he had spoken out of line, he tried making amends, saying that if his remarks would stir up a controversy, he apologises to women.

Nearly a lakh saffron scarves sourced from Peenya: Cong

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mysuru

ACCUSING the BJP of setting a communal agenda in the state, KPCC spokesperson M Lakshman alleged that nearly a lakh of saffron scarves and over 15,000 headgears and turbans were sourced from a garment unit in Bengaluru's Peenya Industrial Area to be supplied to students across Mandya district.

Addressing a press meet here on Wednesday, Lakshman claimed that the RSS and BJP were seeding communalism in the minds of students, as young as 16, who were seen walking to their college campuses wearing saffron scarves, amidst the raging hijab row in the state.

"Nearly a lakh saffron scarves and headgears were sourced from a garment unit in the Peenya Industrial Area, and a document about this will be released in a couple of days. This must be immediately probed as to who placed an order for such a large amount of scarves, and the information must be made public to find the hidden hands behind the students' protest, which has turned violent in many parts of the state," he said.

Lakshman further expressed ire against the BJP government, for announcing three days' holidays for high schools and colleges across the state.

Following allegations of assault from the members of Hindu outfits, some members of the minority community have also been detained. ENS

'ALL PU COLLEGES HAVE MADE UNIFORMS MANDATORY'

DAKSHINA Kannada DDPU Jayanna C D, agreed the uniform is not mandatory, but said that colleges have made it mandatory for the purpose of 'identification' of their students.

Jayanna, who was earlier principal of a government college in Channarayapatna, Hassan district, said that in colleges where there are 1,500 to 2,000 students, it is difficult to handle them if they turn up without uniforms.

"Boys who are not students will come to the campus and also sit in class. Uniform will help prevent such things," he reasoned.

Asked what is the purpose of such a guideline then, he said they will take action only where there are 'some complaints' from students or parents, but he refused to explain further.

Sources said almost all PU colleges in the state have made uniforms mandatory for their students though it is a violation of state guidelines.

Prohibitory orders around colleges in Bengaluru

IT also noted that in order to maintain public order to provide equal treatment to all students and to avoid unnecessary controversy in educational institutions, to maintain secularism among the students, the clarification has been issued making the prescription of uniform dress code.

Meanwhile, CM Basavaraj Bommai's Cabinet, which met on Wednesday, discussed the hijab row, but decided to take the future course of action based on the High Court's decision.

As a precautionary measure, Bengaluru City Police Commissioner Kamal Pant on Wednesday issued orders Section 144(1) of the Criminal Procedure Code, prohibiting gatherings or protests in a radius of 200-metre radius around schools and colleges until February 22.

"It has been noticed that in certain parts of the state, in the last few days, protests and agitations have been held in connection with strict enforcement of schools/colleges uniform rules. In some places, these protests have led to violence, disturbing public peace and order. Since the possibility of similar agitations/protests being held in Bengaluru city cannot be ruled out, it is very essential to initiate proper security measures to maintain public peace and order in Bengaluru city. Therefore, it is considered appropriate to restrict the holding of protests, agitations for and against the strict implementation of the schools/colleges uniform rules in the city," Pant stated. A day after a burqa-clad girl, identified as Bibi Muskan Khan of PES College in Mandya, stood strong against attempts by saffron stole-clad students to intimidate her, the issue found resonance with students and women's groups in several parts of the country.

Extending their support to wearing of hijab, a group of students from a few colleges in Hyderabad took out protest rallies. Nearly 500 students of Kolkata's Aliah University on Wednesday took out a rally in Park Circus area, with many women wearing the hijab. In Mumbra township of Maharashtra's Thane district, hundreds of women, including Hindus, held a demonstration in support of the headscarf for female Muslim students.

KTR seeks apology from Modi; Party workers protest across T'gana

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Hyderabad

IN what appeared to be a throwback to the heady days of Telangana movement, TRS activists on Wednesday spilled onto the roads, rending the air with slogans against Narendra Modi for his "venomous comments" on the way the Telangana State was carved out of Andhra Pradesh in 2014 and questioning the BJP for perpetuating 'Modi's Constitution' in the country rather than the one authored by BR Ambedkar.

The day began with ministers and MLAs going to town in their respective districts taking up cudgels against the BJP for discriminating against Telangana in sanctioning projects and funds and for not keeping the promises made in the AP State Reorganisation Act, 2014. Tension prevailed in Jangaon when BJP activists tried to prevent TRS workers from burning the effigy of the PM.

Finance Minister T Harish Rao tweeted that the BJP government adopted agriculture Bills in Rajya Sabha with a voice vote, even though the party lacked a majority in the Upper House. Harish Rao wondered whether it was called democracy.

TRS working KT Rama Rao, taking Modi's guts for the garter, asked him to apologise to the people of Telangana the way he did to farmers, bowing down to their agitation against farm laws. He said that 'Modi's Constitution' was being implemented in the country.

Act against ex-MLC for fund misuse: Report

YATHIRAJU @Bengaluru

A former Congress MLC from Uttara Kannada, got funds sanctioned from the State Government for a community hall, but diverted it and constructed the 'SL Ghotnekar English Medium school' at Haliyal in his name. Shrikant L Ghotnekar's term ended as MLC recently.

After this was established during probe, Justice P Vishwanatha Shetty, who demitted office as Lokayukta recently, had submitted the report to the State Government and to Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot, recommending criminal proceedings against Ghotnekar for offences punishable under Sections 120B, 403, 406 of IPC read with Section 13(1)(a) of Prevention of Corruption Act for misappropriation of funds and recovery of Rs 5 lakh, together with interest of 10%.

Making similar recommendation against Rayanna Somaninga, president of Shree Chatrapathi Shivaji Education Trust, Haliyal, who is presently running the school, the Lokayukta recommended recovery of Rs 36.25 lakh from him with 10% interest per annum.

As per the report, seen by this correspondent, Ghotnekar got funds released for construction of a community hall for the Kshatriya Maratha community at Haliyal but instead, constructed it on the first floor of the school building, and not independently as per the approved plan in Sy.No.139/9 at Guttigeri village. Following a complaint filed by Nagendra Jivoji, vice-president, Karnataka Kshatriya Maratha Parishat, the Lokayukta police wing conducted an investigation and the allegations were found to be true. A report was submitted to the Backward Classes Welfare Department and to the Governor, recommending criminal proceedings against them.

The Lokayukta has also recommended to the government not to release any grant for the institution, including Shree Chatrapathi Shivaji Education Trust, and those associated with Ghotnekar and Rayanna for any purpose for a period of five years. It directed disciplinary proceedings against Baavaraja Mahadeva Badigera, the then District Officer, Backward Classes Welfare Department, Karwar, and presently working in Bidar.

'Those who follow Vedic philosophies don't launch personal attacks'

HYDERABAD: In a veiled dig at CM K Chandrashekar Rao, RSS chief Mohan Bhagwat on Wednesday said that "those who protected any of the Vedic philosophies had never launched personal attacks against anybody". Addressing a gathering of thousands of devotees during his visit to Sri Ramanujacharya's birth centenary celebrations at the 'Statue of Equality' in Mucchintal, Bhagwat was apparently responding to the CM's criticism of Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Chinna Jeeyar Swami trying to make peace between the two leaders during Amit Shah's visit to the ashram on Tuesday, where he has referred to the CM as a 'true Vaishnava.' Observing that there was nothing to be worried about as Hinduism was alive in 80 per cent of the population despite several invasions in the last millennium and most of the temples were still standing, he said that "our traditions and culture continued to inspire the world".

Unkept promises keep these hamlets in darkness

G JANARDHANA RAO @Visakhapatnam

UNINTERRUPTED power supply still remains a distant dream for 17 tribal hamlets in Koyyuru, G Madugula and Anantagiri mandals, though solar panels were installed. The installation of solar panels had brought hope of regular power connectivity, but the expectations were short-lived, thanks to non-functioning inverters.

"People in these villages are hoping for power supply," Rompalli ward member Appalaraju said. Kotaparthi Simhachalam of NR Puram panchayat said they have been purchasing charging lights for ₹100 each for emergency. Another tribal Kottipeta Jogaiah said they had to spend at least ₹200 a month on charging lights and oil. According to Girijana Sangham leaders, over 600 tribal habitations in 11 agency mandals of Paderu division have been without power connection. After sustained struggle, more than 400 tribal habitations were provided electricity from grid, Sangham leader K Govinda Rao said. As many as 13 villages were given power from the grid in 2013-14, 107 villages in 2015-16, and 498 villages in 2016-17. Solar panels were installed in the remaining 250 villages, but most panels have become defunct as inverters were not functioning, he said. SELECTIVE AMNESIA ON TURBULENCE OVER STATE BIFURCATION

Prime Minister Narendra Modi's argument in Rajya Sabha on Tuesday that the Congress was responsible for the intractable problems thrown up by the bifurcation of erstwhile Andhra Pradesh is far from convincing. The PM targeted the Congress, obviously to paint it as the villain of the piece. If both the Congress and the TRS took exception to the comments, it is understandable as the PM had glossed over the fact that he owed an explanation to both states as to why the promises made in the AP State Reorganisation Act, 2014, had so far not been kept by the government.

In his reply to the motion of thanks to the President's address in the Upper House, Modi said that if the embers continued to smoulder even now in both the states, it was because the Bill was passed during UPA rule without any discussion in Parliament, after mikes were switched off and doors shut, with pepper spray used freely. The PM recalled how Atal Bihari Vajpayee had created three states without any blowback during 1999–2004, which, he said, had proved that the BJP was in favour of smaller states and that it would split them in consonance with the highest traditions of democracy. But how come the Vajpayee government then did not divide Andhra though the BJP state unit at its executive meeting at Kakinada had earlier passed a resolution that it would offer two states for one vote?

Even if one condones the BJP for its amnesia, why has it not addressed any of the pending problems including one of the most vital ones—deciding the share of Krishna and Godavari waters between the two states after bifurcation? The PM has not found time even once during the last eight years to convene a meeting of the heads of two states for a negotiation on the issues. Rubbing salt into the wounds, even before the TRS assumed power after winning the election in 2014, the Modi government brought its first ordinance in late May and transferred seven revenue mandals in the erstwhile Khammam district in Telangana as well as the Lower Sileru Hydel Project to Andhra Pradesh. Instead of blaming others for the post-bifurcation ills, the PM should have given a roadmap for addressing the thorny issues that are crying for attention in the two states.

TN'S ANTI-NEET BILL BACK IN GUV'S COURT

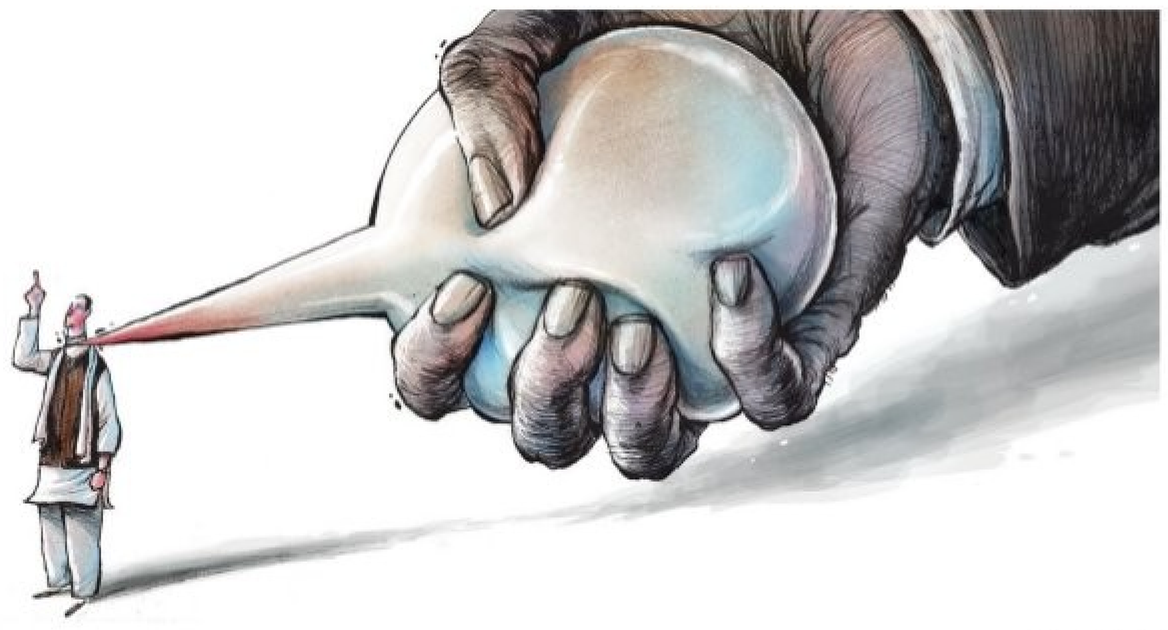
The Tamil Nadu Assembly has once again passed the Bill seeking exemption from the National Eligibility cum Entrance Test (NEET) for admissions to medical courses. After the Bill was first passed on 13 September 2021, Governor R N Ravi sat on it for 142 days before he decided to send it back to the Assembly for reconsideration. But since it has been passed for the second time, the Governor must give his assent or reserve the Bill for the consideration of the President, but cannot return it again. The Governor can exercise a 'pocket veto' and may keep the Bill pending as no time frame has been stipulated by the Constitution. According to Clause 2 of Article 254 of the Constitution, when a law made by a state Legislature on a matter enumerated in the Concurrent List contains any provision repugnant to the provisions of law made by Parliament, then the law shall prevail in that state if it has received the President's assent.

While a three-member Supreme Court Bench has ruled in the Christian Medical College case that admissions to medical and dental courses should be based on NEET, the state is well within its rights to seek exemption from it as per the 2016 ruling of a five-judge Bench in the Modern Dental College vs State of Madhya Pradesh case. As per that order, a state is not denuded of its power to legislate under Entry 25 of the Concurrent List, which talks about the powers of Union and state governments to legislate on education. "The intent of our Constitution framers while introducing Entry 66 was limited only to empowering the Union to lay down a uniform standard of higher education and not to bereft the state Legislature of its power to legislate in relation to 'education'. … no one can be a better judge of the requirements and inequalities-in-opportunity of the people of a particular state than that state itself …," the Bench had said.

Accordingly, if the anti-NEET Bill gets the assent of the President under Article 254, the state can get exemption from the exam. Any move by the Governor to delay it will be seen as political.

The problem with political discourse in India, particularly in recent years, is that it never relies on logic or research. It takes the easy way out and brands the opponent as anti-national

TO STRENGTHEN FEDERALISM, REVISIT THE CONSTITUTION



SOUMYADIP SINHA

G S VASU

Editor, The New Indian Express

Those branded as anti-nationals or accused of/charged with sedition can now draw some solace. They have company. Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrashekar Rao is the latest public figure to be called anti-national, with leaders of both the ruling BJP and the Opposition Congress demanding that prison is the place where he should be. We are truly progressing well as a democracy!

What's KCR's crime? For the benefit of those who missed his press conference on the day the Union Budget was presented, KCR vented out his anger at the Centre for ignoring the interests of states and said it was time to take a deep relook at the Constitution. "It's now 70 years since we adopted one. We have failed to address the needs of people even after such a long period. As someone who spent 50 years in public life, I am proposing that the country debate and discuss my suggestion for a complete review of the Constitutional document to meet the emerging needs."

The crux of his argument was that in line with our federal nature, instead of strengthening the states as we evolve as a nation, Union governments, whether ruled by the Congress or BJP, have been weakening them by way of centralisation, and that proposals such as 'one nation, one identity' or the more recent move by the Centre to provide itself the power to take on deputation any IAS officer from any state without the need for consent go against the basic tenets of the Constitutional spirit. The Opposition pounced on KCR, labelling him as one who gives least respect to democratic functioning and that his demand amounts to insulting Dr Ambedkar. By extension, they called KCR anti-Dalit. The problem with political discourse in India, particularly in recent years, is that it never relies on logic, reason or research. It takes the easy way out and brands the opponent—could be a young climate activist, a comedian, a writer, a poet, a tribal activist or a political leader—as anti-national. This episode is no different.

So, what are the facts? Is this the first time someone is proposing a relook at the Constitution? In the 71 years since we adopted it, the Constitution has been amended 100-plus times, a majority of them by Congress-led governments at the Centre. Neither is it uncommon to rewrite Constitutions as several countries have done, for good or bad reasons.

What we were taught through NCERT textbooks (not sure if they still exist given the way this government has been trying to correct distorted notions of India) was: "The Constitution naturally reflects the efforts to tackle the problems of the society at the time of writing the document. But it's not a frozen, unalterable document and is open to revision, changes or reexamination." The Constitution makers, Dr Ambedkar included, hoped that future generations would respect it but at the same time recognised that it may require modifications, which is precisely why provisions have been created for changes.

Saffron leaders now seeing red over KCR's proposal may perhaps do well to read up a bit. The proposal to review the Constitution was one of the promises in the national agenda the NDA came up with in 1999 ahead of the Lok Sabha elections. Soon after coming to power, the Atal Bihari Vajpayee government constituted in February 2000 a 11-member committee headed by eminent jurist MN Venkatachaliah. The terms of reference for the panel are worth recollecting. "The Commission shall examine, in the light of past 50 years, as to how best the Constitution can respond to the changing needs of efficient, smooth and effective system of governance and socio-economic development of modern India within the framework of parliamentary democracy and to recommend changes, if any, that are required in the provisions without interfering with its basic structure." After exhaustive discussions, the commission recommended dozens of changes, 58 of them involving amendments to the Constitution and 86 requiring legislative measures. They relate to, among others, Union-state relations, decentralisation and devolution. That it remained unimplemented, like the multiple recommendations made by the Sarkaria Commission on Centre-state relations, is a different matter.

Whether it is the one card, one nation issue that KCR flagged or other attempts to foist common rules, what is clear is that it's in plain violation of not only the constitutional spirit but against the very diverse nature of this nation. All of them are important issues that merit serious discussion involving multiple sections and cannot be dismissed with political slogans and personal attacks

Let's keep aside the merits/demerits of KCR (since it's not the subject of this piece), even if one were to assume there is some truth in the criticism that he is autocratic, has a feudal mindset, shouts down those who talk back and so on. But he is no Maoist either. KCR's traits should not distract attention from the reasons he put forth to seek a review of the Constitution, the essential point being the weakening of states vis-a-vis the Union government. Does it not amount to violation of the spirit behind Article 1 of the Constitution that describes India as the "Union of States"?

A few other examples. To begin with, the recent move by the Union government in regard to IAS officers. Law and order being a state subject, what if KCR or another chief minister, in a counter move, says they would manage with their own police officers without drafting from the pool of All India Services? There is nothing wrong in doing so, legally speaking. Take education as another example. It was on the States List until the 42nd Amendment in 1976 when it was moved to the Concurrent List. Through the 42nd Amendment during Emergency, the Indira Gandhi government indulged in substantial tinkering of the Constitution, including an attempt to change the Preamble. It was a mix of good and bad and some of the changes were reversed when the Janata Party came to power post-Emergency.

Going back to education, if we are to accept the fundamental thesis that equality is meant for equals, how fair is it to pit a student coming from a village or small town with another brought up in a metro by adopting a common curriculum or test? In one such case, the late Justice Krishna Iyer observed many decades ago that even in a developed state like Kerala, there can't be a uniform standard for all regions. Whether it is the one card, one nation issue that KCR flagged or other attempts to foist common rules, what is clear is that it's in plain violation of not only the constitutional spirit but against the very diverse nature of this nation.

All of them are important issues that merit serious discussion involving multiple sections and cannot be dismissed with political slogans and personal attacks. The Constitution surely needs to be saved and reformed to strengthen it further, and the only way forward is to discuss and debate. Heckling those with whom one has disagreement, clamping down on protests or arresting critics only weaken the Constitution instead of strengthening it. This principle ought to be the common code for all those in public life.

REFLECTIONS ON BUDGET AND ANALYSES ABOUT IT

KARAN BHASIN

New York-based economist

Over the last several days I have read through many opinion articles, several emails and of course WhatsApp messages about the Budget, each of them expressing their thoughts about it and its likely impact on the economy. Not all of them were positive, but even those who were a bit pessimistic were more so on the tariff changes rather than any other part of the Budget.

Even the harshest of critics have appreciated this Budget—and that is a testament to the ability of the finance minister and her team to stick to what is necessary for the economy. To be fair, even I was one of the harsher critics of her first Budget. But ever since then, every Budget has pushed me hard to find any critical flaw. Not that there aren't any flaws, and of course there are things that could be better, but then again, no Budget can be perfect on all accounts. Moreover, with time it has dawned upon me that most of the Budget analyses are done with respect to a subjective wish list that the authors have. If the Budget meets those wishes, then it is great, else not so much. This is truer for financial analysts and commentators and even occasionally, for me too.

Another confession is that many of us, especially those who study economics, have fallen victim to our sophisticated data-driven empirical methodologies. We tend to rely on them extensively even as we ignore the social and political context. As a result, many times we extrapolate the results to comment on issues with a definitive answer. But more often than not, the correct answer would be: it depends. For instance, if you ask if raising the minimum wage would lower unemployment, the instant answer would be either yes or no depending on the economic worldview of the individual. In reality, it depends on the extent of market power of employers and workers. In fact, on most issues, the answer is not as definitive as one would expect it to be. This is one of the reasons why the economic survey that comes one day before the Budget talked extensively about a more agile policymaking.

The Budget in many ways is a business-as-usual one, but not so much in terms of its innovative approach towards capital expenditures. More so as the government recognises its own constraints on being able to undertake capital expenditures and also in terms of its execution of disinvestments. Given these constraints, on the former, it has decided to allow states to borrow up to ₹1 lakh crore for capital expenditures, while on the latter, it has been conservative in its projections.

Many of us, especially those who study economics, have fallen victim to our sophisticated data-driven empirical methodologies. We tend to rely on them extensively even as we ignore the social and political context. As a result, many times we extrapolate the results and have a definitive answer to complex issues

Conservatism has crept in within the finance ministry's thinking—even on revenue generation numbers, as very likely these will exceed the budgeted figures over the coming years. This is not a criticism of the approach. It is rather welcome that for once we have a finance minister who is more than happy to be conservative and overdeliver, instead of being like some of her predecessors who were ambitious and almost always underdelivered.

A non-eventful Budget was precisely what was required as the government was already fiscally constrained, and thus in a volatile global environment, economic fundamentals are desirable. The key, however, will be execution of a bulk of the capital expenditure plans going forward. As long as the states and Centre can ensure speedy execution, we should see a major transformation of our infrastructure over the coming couple of years.

Ultimately, this Budget was one that mentioned economic growth repeatedly and thus it has to be evaluated against that benchmark. The answer to many questions on public policy might be 'it depends'. But to the question 'Is growth desirable?', the answer is a unanimous yes, given that central banks are hiking rates and so will the US sometime in March. Consequently, global growth is likely to slow substantially as the financial year progresses. Against that backdrop, an 8% growth is exceptionally good and would further endorse the pandemic response of the Indian government. There is extensive optimism regarding our economic prospects and while there is still uncertainty regarding the progression of the pandemic, one certainly expects the optimism to convert into real economic growth.

TN decision historic

It was a historic move by the TN government to re-adopt the NEET Bill unanimously without any amendments. Despite a plethora of ideological differences, the ruling and opposition parties have evolved a consensus. The Governor is duty-bound to forward the Bill for the consideration of the President. It is high time the President considers the interests of the state before coming to a decision.

Why even a Lok Ayukta?

As per the new amendment implemented in the Kerala Lok Ayukta Act, the state government has the right to reject the recommendation of the anti-corruption watchdog. So, it is better to dissolve the Lok Ayukta as it will have no power from now on.

Back to school

A massive compensation education programme has to be implemented at school level, especially at the primary stage (Addressing India's education crisis, Feb 9). Introducing more play activities, psychological guidance and counselling will be very helpful to the children. Parents, children, teachers and the whole society expect a reverberating school campus.

Investors and small biz

The article In defence of small businesses, dear sharks (Feb 9) has perfectly highlighted the problems with the culture of investors, who only seek to support certain ideas that can grow 100x. But India is also about small and medium businesses. There are many ideas that might generate less revenue but offer a 100x benefit to society, such as the upcycling waste example mentioned.

Religion, edu and politics

The wearing of headscarves by minority community female students in Udupi created a lot of controversy and now this row has spread to other places too. Political parties are trying to fish in troubled waters. Religion and education cannot be mixed. Wearing a common uniform in institutions will help in safety and security, and is also a marker of equality among students.

Ram Saran Singh, Bengaluru

Make uniforms compulsory

With the hijab row in Karnataka threatening to open up communal sores, uniforms must be made compulsory in educational institutions. The directive of Karnataka's primary education minister to this effect couldn't have been more appropriate. As long as we are incapable of differentiating between religiosity and spirituality, it is not advisable to allow people to flaunt their faith in places like schools.

Not private visits

The justification given by the Telangana CM and the TRS for skipping the PM's two meetings on February 5 in Hyderabad, calling them 'private' visits, is ludicrous. The PM attended the golden jubilee of ICRISAT, whose work benefits farmers, and the unveiling of the Statue of Equality of Saint Ramanujacharya, a monumental event for a large Hindu community cutting across caste, political, linguistic and regional lines.

ASSEMBLY ELECTION 2022

BJP planning 'unique' manifesto for Manipur

Imphal: Union Minister Bhupender Yadav has said the BJP is preparing a "unique" election manifesto for the upcoming Manipur polls and will "not make any promise that will not be translated into action". Yadav, the BJP's in charge of the polls in the northeastern state, said the saffron camp has held discussions with various stakeholders and set up a panel to draft the manifesto.

Congress releases manifesto for UP

Lucknow: Just a day ahead of the voting for 58 Assembly seats in UP, Congress general secretary Priyanka Gandhi Vadra on Wednesday released her party's election manifesto — Unnati Vidhan — announcing sops for farmers, Covid warriors, teachers and medium-scale enterprises. 'False' cases against journalists will be withdrawn if the Congress comes to power, she said.

Ahmedabad: Around 25 BJP MLAs from Gujarat, who went to Uttrakhand for election campaigning, have been stuck following heavy snowfall in Almora for the past two days. Dushyant Patel, MLA from Bharuch, took to the social media to share the condition of the 25 leaders. He later posted another video saying they were all safe, and reached their destinations.

Divided by religion, united by poverty

Communal card commonplace in UP, but everyday issues gaining importance

RICHA SHARMA
@ Mathura/Muzaffarnagar/Meerut

IRFAN Ansari drives an auto rickshaw in Meerut's Sardhana. He takes out his phone to show the status of a local BJP leader. Local MLA Sangeet Som is seen saying during his election campaign that he respects everyone, but that won't stop him from preventing people from entering villages (if he loses in this Muslim-dominated seat). Som's name was linked to the Muzaffarnagar riots in 2013.

"This is a threat to the Muslim community. Every day such videos circulate. Making such statements also shows his nervousness, for this time BJP's communal agenda has failed to divide people," says Ansari. The 27-year-old then points towards a campaign vehicle, from which announcement is made that the Yogi Adityanath government has ensured Lord Ram resides in Ayodhya and is building a temple that was destroyed by a Muslim ruler.

He is joined by Satbir, a daily wage worker, from the OBC Kashyap community. He says he is a BJP voter. Som, the two-time MLA, is facing a tough challenge from SP-RLD alliance candidate Atul Pradhan, a Gujjar.

"Satbir may be a BJP voter, but he sits and eats with us. He also faces the same problems, like price rise, lack of development. His daily wage is ₹300, the same as 10 years ago. We all want development but spreading riots and creating Hindu-Muslim divide suits political leaders," said Rafa Alam, who also comes from the OBC community and works with Satbir.

Alam points at his and Satbir's torn shoes and clothes to highlight their economic condition. "All are in trouble under this government, whether Hindu or Muslim. Just that when there is a fight between Sunil and Salim, Sunil will be asked to pay the police and allowed to go home but Salim despite paying money will be put behind bars," said Alam.

After the 2013 Muzaffarnagar riots, it was the Jat vote in 2017 that ensured a massive win for BJP in Uttar Pradesh. With farmer issues to the fore this time, Jats across western UP say that the two communities have been living peacefully and differences have reduced.

Communalism in UP has been a poll plank for years and the Yogi government came to power riding on it in 2017. Communal differences run deep in the Muslim-dominated western UP that goes to polls on Thursday. But this time, it may not work because there are other issues bothering both communities.

"The society has roles defined for both and we used to live in harmony. After riots, we faced lots of problems. The jobs of cobblers, carpenters, tailors and all machine work here is done by Muslims. Many have moved out," says Harinder Singh Pawar, a sugarcane farmer from Bhora Kalan in Muzzafarnagar. He has several Muslims working in his fields for years.

THE SHIFTING GROUNDS OF UTTAR PRADESH POLITICS

Dr. Shilp Shikha Singh
Assistant Professor
Giri Institute of Development Studies

Intense political campaign by all parties in UP is signalling a tough fight for BJP. Just a couple of months ago, it seemed invincible. It was praised for changing the discourse of politics from caste to development. The grand narratives of BJP appeared accommodative, inclusive and development oriented.

In this election campaign, we see three significant signs of change. First, there is a distinct social realignment of support base of different parties that is reflected in their political alliances. Second, everyday issues are giving a tough fight to the grand narratives of social justice, Hindutava, nationalism and development. The diluted grand narratives at best acquire a supplementary status. Third, identity politics of caste has gained a new legitimacy amongst the public.

New social realignments

The new social alignments are most visible for BJP and SP. We see a reversal of BJP's social engineering with the exit of significant backward community leaders just before elections. Their discontent was not sudden. It was simmering. They joined the BJP bandwagon individually, in the hope of getting new recognition. They joined as leaders of their communities but the benefits to their communities were often not channelled through them. The connect between the leader and the community was usurped by the party, which created an alternate leadership within the community. These leaders have definitely taken a chunk of their people's support away from BJP. Similarly, the farmer movement has taken away the large support of Jats from BJP in the western region. BJP's truncated social base once again appears to be Hindu, urban and upper caste centred.

Another kind of realignment is visible at the front of SP whose core support base, the Yadavs, had become a new untouchable under the fierce communal polarisation in the state. The mahagatbandhan enabled SP to make inroads into the support base of BSP. Many of its leaders joined SP. The long silence of BSP further enabled SP to project itself as the only winnable option against BJP. This led discontented OBC leaders and communities to join hands with SP. The discontented communities have no natural inclination towards SP. They remember the strong intra-community rivalries with Yadavs, but they are still ready to consider this alliance if they get adequate representation to their community.

Everyday issues vs grand narratives

The lived reality of people and their problems seem to have acquired centrestage. BJP seems to have realised that hard Hindutva might evoke strong reaction. So there is no campaigning around the question of Love Jihad, cow protection brigade or Ramjanambhoomi. There are no direct communal appeals and BJP's counter campaign comes in the form of its narrative around law and order. The communal appeal is laced around law and order by linking it with riots and the honour of 'bahu beti'. Development is projected as the outcome of a riot-free state. Through this, BJP is attempting to project its progressive modern image.

For backward communities and small farmers, issues like destruction of crops by stray animals, increasing input cost of agriculture and inflation matter more. A respondent from Prayagraj said, "During this government's regime only three things grew in size — bulls, coins (small coins that are not used and only accumulate) and sadhus." People in general seem to appreciate the ruling regime's focus on road infrastructure, but some of them feel highways facilitate the business community more and have no direct impact on the poor. Reservation and no recruitment in vacant government positions bother youths of these communities. A fear-free community, a riot-free state can think of industry and employment is the position of BJP on this. Grand infrastructure, the focus of Central budget, will generate employment is the placard of BJP. Portrayed achievements of the last government also revolve around basic amenities like toilets, gas connection, housing and free ration. Likewise, SP seems to be less vocal on social justice, like reservation for backward communities and crime against Muslims. There seems to be an unsaid promise between leaders and the community on these issues. Agriculture, electricity and employment dominate the electoral promises. There is no big dream to chase in this election. Reality is biting hard on politics.

Caste & identity politics

The narratives of elections above caste, progressive BJP beyond petty identity politics, all seem to be stories of the past. Caste is being strongly invoked by all parties including BJP. Politics in UP was never beyond caste, but the calculus of caste remained under cover inside party offices. In this election, we see all the analysis around the caste calculus in mainstream media. Everyone seems to be interested in which caste is going where. We also see people feeling the pinch of BJP's caste behaviour. They share that they voted for BJP thinking they will get a level playing field but the experience turned otherwise. They now think that caste operates within BJP blatantly and the upper caste has a distinct advantage. Community identities around caste have reached a new level and are bargaining hard with parties for position and material benefits.

What would be the final outcome of these changes would be revealed later. However, there are definite breaks in the mode of functioning of parties and people's perception of party politics. While people are forcing parties to respond to their immediate needs, parties are fighting around who can directly distribute more benefits. New frontiers of party allegiances are evolving and bigger dreams of justice, development and nationalism have been kept on the back seat for future deliberation.

Indecision on mining may hurt BJP in Goa

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Panaji

IN 2012 the BJP came into power in Goa with the promise of ending corruption in the mining sector but the same issue is likely to hurt the saffron party in at least four constituencies, including Chief Minister Dr Pramod Sawant's Sanquelim.

More than two lakh people had depended on mining in this lush green coastal state. The Congress government headed by Digambar Kamat had awarded mining contracts. Then, BJP leader Manohar Parrikar travelled in entire Goa and alleged a mining scam of ₹35,000 crore. Ahead of the 2012 election, Parrikar had asked Goans to vote for a "clean government and sustainable mining".

"BJP has failed on its promise of restarting mining activities. Majority of people's bread and butter depended on mining. Like Panaji, Calangute and South Goa, tourism is our main business, but agriculture is the only sector available now. Mining brought prosperity but it has vanished and now assets like trucks and dumpers are degrading," Hanumant Parab, a Pisole resident said.

Parab said Bombay High Court and the Supreme Court had given nod for sustainable mining but the BJP could not restart it. "When elections approach, the BJP promises to restart mining. When the election is over, they simply forget it. How long do we wait?"

Atmaram Parab and his brother own 27 dumpers and all of them have been lying idle for the last ten years. When asked why they did not sell them off, Parab said that in every election, BJP promised to restart mining, and hence, they kept the dumpers in the hope of using them one day. "This time also, CM Sawant has promised to restart mining. We are really confused about what to do?"

Bicholim resident Nilesh Karbodar said the BJP is the main culprit behind the shutting down of mines and they should be thrown out of power. "When mining was on, I was drawing ₹45,000 salary but now, I am jobless. In Goa, sons and their middle-aged fathers are jobless. BJP is only good at giving promises therefore this time we are supporting an independent candidate," he said.

Tough terrain a challenge

VINEET UPADHYAY @ Dehradun

THERE are a total of 11,647 booths in 70 Assembly constituencies in Uttarakhand. To reach 7,143 of those, polling parties will have to walk distances ranging from one km to 15-20 kms. More than 81.72 lakh voters will decide the fate of 632 candidates on February 14.

Of these booths, 766 are in places identified as prone to the snowfall, which will make the task of the polling parties difficult.

A combination of tough terrains and rough weather will pose challenges, which might lower the voting percentage. At least nine booths will require polling parties to trek 15-20kms, five will take 14-15kms of walk, three will require 13-14kms of travel on foot, three will take 12-13kms of walk.

The state Election Commission has identified one booth in every constituency which witnessed least polling last time.

TMC flays Goa CM, seeks clarity on mining losses

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Panaji

HIGHLIGHTING the failures of the ruling BJP government in Goa, the TMC unit of Goa lambasted Chief Minister Pramod Sawant, alleging that he had deceived Goans by peddling fake promises yet again. Rajya Sabha MP and TMC Goa co-incharge Sushmita Dev, Goa TMC Vice-President Rajendra Kakodkar and Goa TMC General Secretary Trajano D'Mello held a joint press conference in Panaji on Wednesday to expose, what they alleged, the lies of the BJP.

"There is complete confusion and no clarity on the issue of mining in Goa. Why has the BJP failed to resume mining in Goa, and why hasn't it been able to give a clear policy in the past five years? More importantly, they should first tell us who was responsible for the illegal mining that saw losses to the tune of Rs 35,000 crore," said Sushmita Dev.

Reiterating Goa TMC's commitment to the people of the state, she said, "Goa TMC's stand is very clear. Within 250 days of forming the government, we will come up with a solution to the mining problem. We will ensure it is sustainable and the revenue generated through it comes back into the Goan economy.''

Attacking the BJP for the rise in fuel prices, Dev said first the BJP government hikes prices and then, just 3-4 months before elections, it reduces prices. "Who are you trying to fool? How do you expect the people to believe that you will fulfil any of the promises written in your manifesto? If you have faith in your 'double engine government' and the Ujjwala scheme which has apparently emancipated the lives of everyone, what is the need to promise three LPG cylinders to the people of Goa?'' she said.

₹288 cr funds of Chinese-owned NBFC seized

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Enforcement Directorate has seized funds worth ₹288 crore of a 'Chinese-owned' non-banking financial company (NBFC) which lent instant loans through mobile apps and later allegedly harassed borrowers by 'misusing' their personal data.

The Central agency seized the bank and payment gateway funds belonging to PC Financial Services Private Limited through three seizure orders issued last year under the Foreign Exchange Management Act (FEMA).

The order for the seizure was issued last week by the commissioner of customs in Chennai. The ED is investigating a number of NBFCs and Fintech companies under Prevention of Money Laundering Act (PMLA) 2002 for providing online instant micro-loans using mobile applications and then extorting high rates of interest by misusing the personal data of the customers, said a statement issued by agency on Wednesday.

25K suicides over joblessness in three years

According to figures presented in Rajya Sabha, cases rose in 2020 when Covid-19 outbreak shook the country

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Centre on Wednesday informed the Rajya Sabha that over 25,000 Indians died by suicide due to either unemployment or indebtedness between 2018 and 2020.

The data provided by the government showed that as many as 9,140 people died by suicide due to unemployment and 16,091 people due to bankruptcy or indebtedness during the time period, the government told the upper house.

The information was provided by Minister of State (Home) Nityanand Rai in a written reply to a question on the issue. Rai said that the government figures are based on data provided by the National Crime Records Bureau (NCRB).

Government has been cornered by the Opposition on the issues of unemployment in past few weeks. Congress leader Rahul Gandhi on Monday hit out at the government on the issue of unemployment, and cited a survey to say that the good days are elusive.

According to the data, suicides among the unemployed have been increasing and touched the highest (3,548) in the pandemic year of 2020. While 2,741 ended life due to unemployment in 2018, 2,851 did so in 2019. The data said that in 2018, 4,970 died by suicide due to bankruptcy, in 2019 the figure increased to 5,908. In 2020, the figures dropped by over 600 deaths to 5,213.

The minister said the government was looking to address the issue by focusing on mental health and creating employment opportunities. "To address the burden of mental disorders, the National Mental Health Programme is being implemented, along with supporting the District Mental Health Programme in 692 districts in the country," he said.

"The programme aims to provide suicide prevention services, workplace stress management, life skills training and counselling in schools and colleges; mental health services including prevention, promotion and long-term continuing care at different levels of district healthcare delivery system and promote community awareness and participation in the delivery of mental healthcare services," he said.

The minister said that flagship programmes of the Centre have the potential to generate productive employment opportunities.

Assam tribunals deem 1.43L 'foreigners'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

OVER 1.43 lakh people were declared foreigners by the Foreigners Tribunals (FTs) operating in Assam, the government told the Parliament on Wednesday. Nearly 1.21 lakh others had been declared as Indians by these FTs, a total 100 of which operate in Assam.

In a written statement, the Centre also said that a total of 329 such declared foreigners had been deported to their respective countries till February 1 this year. "The total number of cases pending in these FTs as on December 31, 2021 is 1,23,829. The total number of people declared as foreigners as on December 31, 2021 is 1,43,466. The total number of people declared as Indian as on December 31, 2021 is 1,21,598. A total of 329 persons have been deported to their countries of origin as on February 1, 2022," Minister of State for Ministry of Home Affairs, Nityanand Rai informed the Parliament through a written statement.

The MoS added that the state government had been delegated the responsibility to make necessary arrangements for detention centres or camps as per their requirement.

The decisions announced by the FTs regarding the issue of citizenship have repeatedly been challenged in various courts across the country and often the interventions have led to the decisions of the tribunals being overturned.

Recently, a two-member bench of the Gauhati High Court in its judgment, allowed one person, declared a foreigner by an FT, another opportunity to prove her case, stating that citizenship was a "very important right of a person", which "should ordinarily be decided on merit rather than by way of default as has happened in the present case".

No night-landing facility in 23 airports

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

AS MANY AS 23 operational airports in the country do not have night landing facility.

The list of airports not having night landing facility also include Kushinagar International Airport in Uttar Pradesh which was inaugurated in October 2021 giving a major boost to Buddhist tourism circuit.

Others in the list are Salem in Tamil Nadu; Shimla, Kullu and Dharamshala in Himachal Pradesh; Kalaburagi in Karnataka, and others.

Authorities do not permit the aircrafts to land at night at an airport which does not have night landing facility.

India has over 100 operational airports and officials said that the airports not having night landing facility are mostly those witnessing lower passenger traffic. Airports Authority of India, which manages most of the airports in India, takes up a particular one for consideration for providing night landing facilities, when airlines show an interest during night operations.

Airlines have to apply with the Airports Authority of India to facilitate night landing facility in a particular airport and then process of offering the convenience starts.

The upgradation of airports, including provision of night landing facility is a continuous process, which depends upon operational requirements, commercial feasibility, etc, and varies from airport to airport in the country, said the ministry of civil aviation in a recent Parliament reply.

The main requirement for night landing is that the runway approach lighting system which includes a series of light bars with strobe lights installed at the end of the runway.

Land of 610 Kashmiri Pandit families restored in 5 years: Govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of Home Affairs (MHA) informed the Parliament on Wednesday that the properties of 610 Kashmiri Pandit families, who had fled the valley following the outbreak of violence in the 1990s, had been restored to them.

"As per the information provided by the government of Jammu and Kashmir, the land of 610 applicants (migrants) has been restored in the last five years," MHA said in a written statement before the Parliament.

According to the information shared by the ministry MoS, Nityanand Rai, the Jammu and Kashmir Migrant Immovable Property (Preservation, Protection and Restraint on Distress Sales) Act, 1997, makes the District Magistrates (DMs) of the respective areas of Jammu and Kashmir the legal custodians of the immovable properties of the migrant families.

The government informed the Parliament that it was within the powers of the DMs to take the necessary steps for the preservation and protection of such properties. Rai told the Rajya Sabha that 6,000 transit accommodations had also been created by the Central government for Kashmiri Pandits in the Union Territory (UT) of Jammu and Kashmir.

"The government has taken several measures to rehabilitate Kashmiri migrants back to the valley that include construction of 6,000 transit accommodations in the Kashmir Valley at an estimated cost of ₹920 crore in order to provide accommodation to employed Kashmiri migrants," he said.

Rai told the Parliament that as many as 3,000 state government jobs had been created by the Central government for the Pandits under the Prime Minister's Development Package-2015 (PMDP-2015), with an outlay of ₹1,080 crore.

The MoS said that the J&K administration had also appointed 1,739 migrants and selected 1,098 migrants under the PMDP policy.

SECOND TERM CBSE EXAMS IN OFFLINE MODE FROM APR 26

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE Central Board of Secondary Education (CBSE) on Wednesday announced that it will conduct the term-2 board examinations for classes X and XII offline from April 26.

The board had conducted the term-1 examinations during November-December last year and the results are still awaited.

"The board after discussions with various stakeholders and taking into consideration the Covid-19 pandemic situation in the country has decided to conduct the term-2 examinations offline," Sanyam Bhardwaj, exam controller, said.

The date sheet for classes X and XII will be released soon and will be available on the board's website.

In term-2 exams, students will answer both objective and subjective type questions. The term-1 papers only had objective or multiple-choice type questions.

The notification said the students will appear for the examinations from the allotted examination centres as done during the preceding years. The board will follow the pattern of sample question papers for the exam.

Besides, the sample papers were released last month on the CBSE academic website.

For the first time, the central education board is conducting classes X and XII final examinations in two terms. The decision was taken in early last year in view of uncertainty arising out of the Covid situation.

The board recently warned students against fake notices regarding term-1 result date and misinformation about term-2 examinations.

Gujarat tribals oppose river linking project

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

TRIBAL leaders from Gujarat's Dang, Valsad, Surat and Navsari districts are camping in state capital Gandhinagar to garner support of the MLAs of both ruling BJP and opposition Congress for an agitation against the Par-Tapi-Narmada river linking project announced in the recent Union Budget.

The project will submerge around 7,500 hectares of land owing to construction of seven dams. Tribal leaders say the project would affect 75 villages and displace more than 35,000 villagers.

The linking project proposes to transfer water from the surplus regions of Western Ghats to the deficit regions of Saurashtra and Kutch.

The same project had come to a halt in 2007-2008 following strong opposition from tribals.

The tribal leaders alleged the Centre designed the project to "cover up" the Narmada Yojana's "failure". Hundreds of tribals will be displaced as a result of the project in Dang, Valsad, and Tapi districts. Dang's forests abounding in teak and bamboo and other woods will stand submerged.

Tribal leaders said they have seen many projects like the Narmada Yojana, Statue of Unity, Ukai, etc., where the tribals displaced from their lands are yet to be compensated.

A delegation of senior tribal leaders of south Gujarat called on the leader of Opposition in the Gujarat Assembly, Sukhram Rathva. Tribal leaders said they wanted the elected representatives to discuss the project in the Assembly.

Activist Mukesh Patel said, "We won't let our tribals be displaced from their forest land in the name of the river linking project. Our slogan is 'dam hatao, Dang bachao.'"

SUPREME COURT UPDATES

Child custody issue raised

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Wednesday asked why the legislature was not trying to bring the legal aspect pertaining to custody of a child, stuck in between parents fighting matrimonial litigations, under "one umbrella" legislation and referred to several existing statutes governing the issue of custody saying they raised the number of litigations. The bench said there are at least four or five statutes, which deal with the issue and they give rise to several litigations arising from same.

Bail for Trinamool agent

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Wednesday granted anticipatory bail to Mamata Banerjee's election agent S K Supiyan in a murder case being investigated by the CBI. A bench headed by Justice L Nageswara Rao passed the order on a plea by Supiyan challenging an order of the Calcutta HC which had rejected his bail plea. The CBI is probing the killing of a BJP worker in Nandigram, which took place during the post-poll violence after the TMC won the state assembly polls in May 2021.

VOTES OF UP MLAs MATTER THE MOST

BESIDES the state votes, the UPA has one lakh votes in Lok Sabha and 59,000 in Rajya Sabha. This takes its tally to a little over 4.1 lakh votes.

Then there are the fence sitters like Biju Janata Dal, YSR Congress Party, Telangana Rashtra Samithi, Bahujan Samaj Party, Shiromani Akali Dal and a few other smaller parties. These parties together have 1.1 lakh votes in Parliament and assemblies combined. Of them, the TRS, after its recent vituperative outburst against the BJP and Telangana CM K Chandrashekar Rao's boycott of Prime Minister Narenadra Modi's programme in the state, seems likely to vote against the BJP nominee.

The real fence sitters therefore are Naveen Patnaik (BJD), Jagan (YSRCP), Mayawati (BSP) and Badal (SAD). These are the leaders to be watched in the event of the BJP losing UP. They will play a crucial role in the election of the next President in such an eventuality.

The President is elected by an electoral college consisting of members of both houses of Parliament (MPs) and Members of Legislative Assemblies (MLAs) of states and UTs.

The value of the vote for an MLA of a particular state is calculated by dividing the total number of electors in that state with total number of MLAs. This gives the value or weightage of the vote of each MLA in a state or UT. Similarly, the value of the vote of an MP is calculated by taking the total value of votes of all the state and Union Territory Assemblies together and dividing it by the total number of elected MPs of both Houses of Parliament. The value of votes of MLAs differs for every state, but the value of each MP's vote is the same at 708.

MLAs from Uttar Pradesh have the highest value for their votes as they are elected by the largest number of electors. The value of vote of each UP MLA is 208.

Proposal for 80-seater boat on Sukhna Lake shelved

The city administration has shelved the proposal to introduce an 80-seater solar-cum-battery-operated party boat at the Sukhna Lake. The tenders floated by the Chandigarh Industrial and Tourism Corporation (CITCO) in this regard has now been dropped. Reportedly, poor response from bidders as well as challenges posed by technical aspects are the reasons. In 2019, only two bidder came forward; and in 2021, the tenders were refloated but again to no avail from bidders. These developments have prompted the administration to drop the proposal. The idea was for a boat with terrace for small events with all necessary supporting facilities. Sukhna Lake is a rainfed reservoir created in 1958 by damming the Sukhna Choe, a seasonal stream coming down from the Shivalik Hills.

Second phase of e-bus rollout likely soon

The rollout of the second fleet of electric buses might happen in the coming days as the city transport authorities has received the lowest bid of `44.99 per km to run 40 electric buses. The second phase of the project is already before the administration for final approval. Once cleared, the city administration will save `15 per km per bus. Presently, the city administration is paying `60 per km for the 40 electric buses introduced in the first phase. All the 80 buses have the same specification. A total of four companies had participated in the financial bids.

Rose Festival to be back with all original events

The annual three-day Rose Festival is back in Chandigarh. The city municipal corporation had moderated the festival into a symbolic event last year due to the second wave of the COVID-19 pandemic, this time around it will be a full-fledged affair with all the original events. Rose competitions, traditional dance competitions, flower cutting and arrangement contests, a dog show and floral hat competition are expected to be organised. The rose festival is held in the last week of February but this time to align with the 'Iconic Week' being charted by the union Ministry of Information and Broadcasting, the Rose Festival could be held in the first week of March.

Ukraine: European diplomatic push helping avert war

Situation remains tense but under control

KYIV

UKRAINE said on Wednesday that a European diplomatic push aimed at averting a feared Russian invasion of the ex-Soviet state was working but that the situation remained tense.

"The situation remains tense but under control. Diplomacy is continuing to lower tensions," Foreign Minister Dmytro Kuleba told reporters after talks with his Spanish counterpart Jose Manuel Albares. "The way the greater European community responds to this crisis will determine the future of European security and of each individual European state." Kuleba's comments came after French President Emmanuel Macron engaged in a round of shuttle diplomacy between Moscow and Kyiv and then continuing his talks in Berlin.

Macron said he secured a pledge from Russian President Vladimir Putin that the Kremlin "would not be the source of an escalation". But Washington warns that Russia's decision to mass more than 100,000 soldiers near Ukraine's borders meant that Putin was seriously mulling an invasion aimed at reversing Kyiv's pro-Western course.

Ukraine has been trying to talk down the prospects of war because of the dire effect on the country's investment climate. But it has also pushed for tough preventative sanctions against Russia aimed at punishing it for its role in the eight-year conflict in Ukraine's separatist east. "Without exaggeration, Russia is trying to take revenge for the Soviet Union losing the Cold War, which is why today, we are talking about defending the entire security architecture of Europe," Kuleba said.

"Ukraine's position is that in recent years, Russia has been gravely violating international law and the Minsk agreements" on settling the separatist conflict, he said. AFP

UK foreign minister in Russia with warning

Moscow: British Foreign Secretary Liz Truss arrived in Moscow on Wednesday to deliver a message that Russia must choose a peaceful path in Ukraine or face "massive consequences" from Western sanctions. The first such visit by a UK foreign minister in more than four years, Truss was to meet her Russian counterpart Sergei Lavrov on Thursday to urge Moscow to abide by its international commitments and respect Ukraine's sovereignty. "The UK is determined to stand up for freedom and democracy in Ukraine," Truss said in a statement as she departed on the two-day trip. "I'm visiting Moscow to urge Russia to pursue a diplomatic solution and make clear that another Russian invasion of a sovereign state would bring massive consequences for all involved," she added. "Russia has a choice here. We strongly encourage them to engage and choose the path of diplomacy." AFP

Quad should stop driving wedges between countries: China

BEIJING

AHEAD of Quad foreign ministers' meeting on Friday, China said on Wednesday that it was opposed to "exclusive blocs" to create bloc confrontation and the four-nation alliance should stop driving wedges between regional countries.

In November 2017, the US, Australia, India and Japan gave shape to the long-pending proposal of setting up the Quad to develop a new strategy to keep the critical sea routes in the Indo-Pacific free of any influence, amidst China's growing military presence in the strategic region.

"We oppose exclusive blocs to create bloc confrontation,' Chinese Foreign Ministry spokesman Zhao Lijian told a media briefing here while answering a question on the Foreign Ministers' meeting of the Quad - the Quadrilateral Security Dialogue comprising the United States, India, Japan and Australia in Melbourne on Friday.

"We hope that the US and relevant countries can get a clear picture of the situation, feel relaxed, abandon the Cold War mentality, stop driving wedges between regional countries and contribute to regional peace, stability and prosperity,' he said.

External Affairs Minister S Jaishankar will participate in the fourth Quad foreign ministers' meeting on February 11 in Melbourne along with his counterparts from Australia, Japan and the US.

Asked about the reported remarks by US Assistant Secretary Daniel J Kritenbrink that Quad Foreign Ministers' meeting in Melbourne will discuss ways to counter challenges posed by China to democratic values and international order, Zhao attacked the US, questioning its democratic credentials.

"Democracy is a common value of humanity, not a patent claimed by a few countries. Whether a country is democratic or not should be judged by its own people. The US has long lost its reputation as a democracy. However, it is still trying to force other countries to accept its US-style democratic standards," he said.

"The US is drawing a line along democratic values, and putting together small blocs. This is a complete betrayal of democratic values," Zhao said. "'China is an enabling force for regional order seeking peace, development, and cooperation. We advance the building of an Asia-Pacific security system that is open, inclusive, and not targeting any third country," he said.

"We oppose exclusive blocs to create bloc confrontation. Like most countries, China recognises and supports the UN-centred international system and an international order underpinned by international law, rather than the so-called rules defined by one or a few countries unilaterally," he said. "Any multilateral regime should follow the trend of the times for peace and development, and should be conducive to enhance mutual trust and cooperation among countries," he said. PTI

Truckers' stir: Worries over Canada's economic recovery deepen

OTTAWA

THE two-week-long Canadian truckers' protests against Covid rules threatens the country's economic recovery, ministers said on Wednesday, with growing demonstrations blocking a vital trade link with the United States.

More protesters have been joining the blockade of the Ambassador Bridge between Windsor and Detroit in solidarity with protests bringing the center of the capital Ottawa to a halt.

"We're all tired of this pandemic but these illegal blockades must stop," Industry Minister Francois-Philippe Champagne tweeted.

The suspension bridge, he noted, "is the most important land crossing in North America and is critical to our supply chains. 1000s of workers and businesses depend on it for their livelihoods."

More than 40,000 commuters, tourists and truck drivers carrying US$323 million worth of goods travel across the span each day.

Scores of Canadian and American chambers of commerce and industry associations demanded the bridge is cleared, saying "as our economies emerge from the impacts of the pandemic we cannot allow any group to undermine the cross-border trade."

Another key trade link between Coutts, Alberta and Sweet Grass, Montana has also been clogged by protesters for several days.

"This is a dramatic situation that is impacting the well-being of Canada's relationship with the United States and impacts immensely how business is able to conduct its operations," said University of Ottawa professor Gilles LeVasseur. AFP

Islamabad: Pakistan's election body on Wednesday disqualified a lawmaker of Prime Minister Imran Khan's ruling Pakistan Tehreek-i-Insaf for concealing his dual nationality at the time of contesting elections in 2018. Faisal Vawda was elected from a constituency in Karachi and served as minister for water resources. But he ran into hot water when The News newspaper reported in January 2020 that he was a US national at the time of filing his nomination for election on June 11, 2018. Subsequently, his election was challenged with the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) disqualified him. PTI

Iran unveils missile said to put Israel in reach

TEHRAN

IRAN'S Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps on Wednesday announced the development of a surface-to-surface missile whose stated range would put arch foe Israel within reach. The Guards' Sepahnews website said the missile was named the Khaybarchekan after a victorious battle fought by the Prophet Mohammed in the seventh century.

Armed forces chief of staff Mohammad Bagheri described it as a strategic, "long-range" missile. The Guards' Sepahnews website said the missile has a range of 1,450 kilometres (about 900 miles), runs on solid fuel and is capable of penetrating anti-missile systems.

It was unveiled during a visit to a surface-to-surface missile base of the Guards' air force, with the chief of the aerospace department Amirali Hajizadeh present.

"Its manoeuvrability and extreme speed allow it to reach targets within a radius of 1,450 kilometres," the website said.

Iran has the largest arsenal of missiles in the Middle East.

On December 24, the Islamic republic fired 16 ballistic missiles to conclude military drills described by generals as a warning to Israel. AP

Didn't kill anyone, says Paris terror attacker

Paris: The only assailant still alive after the terror attacks that rocked Paris in November 2015 said Wednesday that he did not kill or hurt anyone as he took the stand for the first time in the trial over the jihadist massacres. "I didn't cause even a scratch," Salah Abdeslam told the court in a sudden outburst before he was to be questioned over the worst peacetime atrocity carried out on French soil, which saw 130 people killed. Abdeslam, 32, reiterated his claim of being a member of the Islamic State group, but said the court was making a mistake in wanting to "make an example" of him by inflicting a potential life sentence. AFP

UN REPORT WARNS

Terror groups enjoy greater freedom in Af

UNITED NATIONS

> There are no recent signs that the Taliban has taken steps to limit the activities of foreign terrorist fighters in the country. On the contrary, they enjoy greater freedom than at any time in recent history
>
> UN Secretary-General's report

TERROR groups enjoy greater freedom in Afghanistan than at any time in recent history and there are no signs that the Taliban leadership has taken steps to limit the activities of foreign terrorists in the country, a report of the UN Secretary-General has said.

The report says the dreaded Islamic State (IS) terrorist group aims to position itself as the 'chief rejectionist force' in Afghanistan, expands into neighbouring Central and South Asian countries and is viewed by the Taliban as its primary armed threat.

The reports notes that the security landscape in Afghanistan changed dramatically on August 15, following a Taliban military campaign that took control in the country, including Kabul. It, however, said that only a small number of foreign terrorist fighters are moving to Afghanistan.

The report said IS affiliate in Afghanistan, Islamic State in Iraq and the Levant-Khorasan, continues to be led by Sanaullah Ghafari, an Afghan national, who was designated by the ISIS and al-Qaida Sanctions Committee of the UN Security Council in December last year. The US on Monday announced a reward of up to $10 million for information on Ghafari and those responsible for last year's militant attack on the Kabul international airport that killed at least 185 people.

According to the UN report, IS-K is taking advantage of the turmoil in the country, including by recruiting fighters from the Eastern Turkistan Islamic Movement and the Turkistan Islamic Party, among other foreign terrorist groups.

"It aims to position itself as the chief rejectionist force in Afghanistan and to expand into neighbouring central and couth Asian countries and is viewed by Taliban as its primary threat," the report said.

If Afghanistan descends into further chaos, some Afghan and foreign violent extremists may shift allegiances to IS, the report said. The strength of IS-K has increased from earlier estimates of 2,200 fighters to now approaching 4,000 following the release by the Taliban of several thousand individuals from prison. One UN member state has assessed that up to half the individuals are foreign terrorist fighters. PTI

Govt may go for capital gains tax overhaul

Looking at tax structure at global lelvels, says Revenue Secy; asks CII to look at the issue and send report to govt

The capital gains tax structure is complicated and it needs to be re-looked at. It has too many rates and periods

Tarun Bajaj, Revenue Secretary

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

THOUGH the government may have avoided making too many changes in tax rules in the recent budget, it has hinted that it may undertake big changes in the capital gains tax structure.

"The capital gains tax structure is complicated and it needs to be re-looked at. It has too many rates and periods," Revenue Secretary Tarun Bajaj said in an interaction with industries on Wednesday.

Explaining the myriad of different periods and rates for capital gains tax, Bajaj said that while real estate attracts long-term capital gains after 24 months, in equities the same gets kicked in after 12 months.

He said that the government is looking at how capital gains tax structure is at global levels — both in the developed as well as in the developing countries. He also asked industry body Confederation of Indian Industries (CII) to independently look at the issue and send its report to the government.

"Capital gain tax in India is charged at varied rates depending upon type of asset and period of holding. Period of holding decides whether the gains are taxable as long-term capital gains (LTCG) or short-term capital gain (STCG). Further, the STCG is taxable at slab rates, unless the same is arising on sale of equity shares or equity oriented mutual funds (where STT has been paid) is taxable at 15%," Rakesh Nangia, chairman of Nangia Andersen India, says explaining why the government might be planning to simplify the structure.

Bajaj said that in the current financial year, the government is likely to fetch ₹60,000-80,000 cr in capital gains tax compared to ₹6,000-8,000 cr in 2020-21.

The revenue secretary said that while the government has decided not to make too many changes in the existing tax structure, going forwards the focus of the government is to bring about major changes in the personal taxation and GST.

ASSET-WISE CAPITAL GAINS TAX STRUCTURE

Asset	Holding period (for LTCG)	LTCG tax rate	STCG tax rate
Equity	12 months	10% if LTCG is more than 1 lakh	15%
Debt	36 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab
Gold	36 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab
Real estate	24 months	20% after indexation	Taxed according to tax slab

Note: LTCG: Long-term capital gains; STCG: Short-term capital Gains

UNION BUDGET 2022-23

INFRA, LOGISTICS TO LEAD THE WAY

TO spur growth, an infrastructure plan needs to be implemented and the announcements of the Union Budget 2022-2023 brings the much-needed fillip in this direction. The implementation of the PM Gati Shakti scheme will have an impact on other aligned sectors such as renewable energy and the ICT, as well as reduce the pressure of congestion in urban centers and give impetus for the growth of tourism.

Similarly, the expansion of the National Highway Network by 25,000 km in 2022-2023 is essential to fuel the growth. Other major developments such as creating efficient logistics by the railways will be the driving force for small farmers and enterprises.

The labour intensive Indian real estate sector holds the potential to contribute to at least 15% of the GDP growth, which includes employment generation and a multiplier effect on 270 allied industries. Over ₹60,000 crore have been allocated to provide tap water to, at least, 3.83 crore households pointing towards the betterment of ease of living standards. While all the optimistic measures affirm fulfilling the goal of affordable housing for all, it will also bring in job creation opportunities and contribute towards a better pie of GDP. It will enable a sustained growth in the economy.

Dr Niranjan Hiranandani
Vice Chairman, NAREDCO, and MD, Hiranandani Group

Logistics and warehousing will be a new buoyant sector of the Indian economy and has been witnessing a rapid growth post Covid disruptions. There is a significant growth potential for trade in general with improved logistics infrastructure. As a part of Atmanirbhar Bharat, 2,000 kilometres of the rail network will be brought under the indigenous world-class technology KAWACH, which is a gift to the Indian Railways.

The announcement of four multi-modal national parks contracts, which will be awarded in FY 23, is a much-needed step for a growing economy like India. This will allow for the efficient movement of goods via various modes, lowering logistics costs and time, assisting with just-in-time inventory management, and eliminating time-consuming documentation.

Thus, the prospects of growth look greater with the Union Budget 2022-23, the announcements of packages in various sectors have put light on the path that the nation will traverse in. With major announcements in sectors such as infrastructure, real estate and logistics which are the main drivers of growth in the economy, the goal of achieving a $5-trillion economy seems closer.

No bidder for BSNL and MTNL properties: Govt

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE government on Wednesday informed that it couldn't find any bidder for the properties of state-owned Bharat Sanchar Nigam Limited (BSNL) and Mahanagar Telephone Nigam Limited (MTNL). In a written reply to a question in Lok Sabha, Meity minister Ashwini Vaishnaw said no eligible bids have been received except for 7 flats in Mumbai.

"Bids were invited for 4 properties of BSNL and 2 properties of MTNL on 18 November 2021 and opened on 4 January 2022. No eligible bids have been received except for 7 flats in Mumbai," said the minister.

He said the cumulative losses incurred up to 2020-21 by BSNL and MTNL are ₹95,701 cr and ₹35,348 cr, respectively. On the question of rationale behind selling assets of public sector telco's while simultaneously bailing-out loss making private companies like Vodafone Idea, the minister said it is a part of a reform and to promote healthy competition, protect the interest of consumers and infuse liquidity in the sector.

The debt-laden VIL opted to convert ₹16,000 cr of interest liability to government equity.

For BSNL and MTNL, the minister said it has already approved a revival package on October 23, 2019.

FRL-Reliance deal: SC seeks Future's reply on Amazon plea

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday sought a response from the Future group on US e-commerce major Amazon's plea against the Delhi High Court order staying the arbitration proceedings before a tribunal over Future-Reliance merger deal.

The apex court said that it would hear the matter on February 23. The bench comprised Chief Justice N V Ramana and Justices A S Bopanna and Hima Kohli.

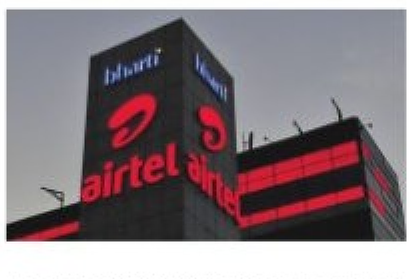
The Delhi High Court on January 5 had stayed the Amazon-Future arbitration which is going on before a three-member arbitral tribunal over the latter's ₹24,500-crore deal with Reliance Retail.

Further, the Supreme Court on 3rd February had reserved its order on the plea of Future Retail Ltd (FRL) seeking to go ahead with the merger deal. The top court on February 1 also set aside three Delhi High Court orders including attachment of properties of Future Retail and its directors and the refusal to grant a stay on the final arbitral award which had restrained Future Retail from going ahead with its deal with Reliance Retail and had ordered fresh adjudication.

Future group and Amazon are entangled in a tussle since October 2020, when the e-commerce giant dragged the latter to arbitration at SIAC. Amazon argued that Future Retail has violated their contract by entering into a deal for the sale of its assets to Reliance Retail on a slump sale basis for ₹24,500 crore. Since 2020, the dispute is being fought at various courts.

Airtel mulls tariff hikes; eyes ₹300 revenue/user

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi



BHARTI Airtel on Wednesday said that it is mulling for another tariff hike to take its ARPU (average revenue per user) to ₹200 in per month in this calendar year.

As per the reports, in a post earnings call, Airtel CEO Gopal Vittal said there might be another tariff hike, if not in the next three to four months, but later in the current calendar year itself. He further said that the company won't hesitate to lead in tariff hikes as it did last year. However, he also clarified that tariff hike would take place only after the current wave of SIM consolidation, caused by the last rounds of hikes, come down.

In November 2021, all the three telcos- Reliance Jio, Bharti Airtel and Vodafone Idea– hiked their prepaid tariff by 20-25%. Airtel, while increasing its tariff in November, said that ARPU needs to be ₹200 and then reach ₹300.

In its third quarter result released on Tuesday, the company reported a 2.8% drop in its net profit to ₹830 crore as against ₹854 crore in the year-ago period. Its revenue from operations rose 13% year-on-year. However, the company improved its ARPU to ₹163, up from ₹146 a year ago. "The full impact of the revised mobile tariffs will be visible in the fourth quarter," said Vittal in earnings statement. Bharti Airtel shares rose 1.55% to close at ₹719.90 on the NSE on Wednesday.

Markets price in 20-25 bps reverse repo hike

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @Mumbai

THE 12-bank Bank Nifty index rose a day ahead of the RBI's policy meeting on fresh buying and short covering by FIIs, said analysts, adding that the market had priced in a 20-25 bps reverse repo rate hike.

Reverse repo is the rate at which RBI sucks out liquidity from the banking system.

Higher delivery based trades were witnessed in Axis Bank, ICICI, IndusInd and SBI from a day ago. For example, ICICI posted delivery volume of 59.47% (versus 55.76% on Tuesday), ICICI 56.54% (51.44%) and SBI 35.47% (19.74%).

Furthermore, FIIs covered their outstanding bearish positions on index futures — Bank Nifty and Nifty — by 15976 contracts, resulting in the 12-constituent Bank Nifty outperforming the Nifty.

Bank Nifty ended up 1.5% at 38610.25 against the Nifty's and Sensex's 1.14% rise each to 17463.8 and 58466.

The Feb 24 expiry Bank Nifty contract's open positions declined by almost 6% as the contract rose 1.55%, a clear sign of short covering. Also, while FIIs sold a provisional ₹893 crore worth of shares on Wednesday, DIIs purchased ₹1,793 cr shares, causing frontline indices to rise. Investor wealth increased by ₹2.46 lakh cr.

"Given the huge borrowing programme of the Centre in FY23, RBI could keep rates unchanged at its meet tomorrow (Feb 10)," said Vishal Wagh, research head, Bonanza Portfolio. "This is positive for Bank Nifty, whose price is discounting a 20-25 bps hike in reverse repo either within or outside of the MPC."

The FII sales have been balanced by domestic investor inflows. Net inflows into mutual funds' equity oriented schemes stood at ₹14877.77 crore, up for the 11 straight month, Amfi data showed. Debt oriented schemes attracted net inflows of ₹5,088 crore in January.

Centre, states meet on rise in edible oil price

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @New Delhi

AS prices of edible oil continue to surge, the government on Wednesday said it has held a meeting to curtail any unfair practices like hoarding, black marketing etc. in the market which may lead to any increase in the prices of edible oils. Soaring prices of edible oil is a major roadblock in India's struggle to control inflation.

The meeting held by the Department of Food & Public Distribution on Tuesday emphasised that states/UTs authorities may enforce stock limit quantities order without causing any disruption in the supply chain and also any undue hardship to bonafide trade, the Ministry of Consumer Affairs, Food & Public Distribution said in a statement.

According to the 2021-2022 Economic Survey, "Oils and fats" contributed around 60% of "food and beverages" inflation despite having a weight of only 7.8% in the group. "The demand for edible oils is largely met through imports (60%) and fluctuations in international prices have been responsible for the high inflation in this sub group."

"For edible oils, the stock limit specified is 30 quintals for retailers, 500 quintals for wholesalers, 30 quintals for retail outlets of bulk consumers i.e. big chain retailers and shops and 1,000 quintals for its depots," the statement said.

In case the stocks are higher, it has to be declared on the portal of Department of Food & Public Distribution, it said.

Jhunjhunwala, others to pick stake in DB Realty; experts bullish on firm

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@New Delhi

MUMBAI based real estate developer DB Realty (DBR) continue to attract top names for its fund raising plans. After Godrej Properties called-off its planned investment in the firm, it is now billionaire investor Rakesh Jhunjhunwala, among others, who will be participating in DB Realty's fund-raise.

DBR on Monday informed that it's board has approved to raise funds through the issue of 5 crore warrants to non promoter investors, subject to approval of the shareholders of DB Realty Limited and regulatory authorities.

This is in addition to the issue of 7.7 crore warrants, to its promoter group and Pinnacle Investments (a partnership between Prestige group promoter Razack Family Trust and Prestige group CEO Venkata Narayana Konanki), which the company had announced last week. In total, there will be fund infusion of ₹1,575 crore into the company post conversions of warrants allotted and proposed to be allotted, DBR said in a regulatory filing.

The company will allot 1 crore warrants each to new investors i.e. Rakesh Jhunjhunwala's venture capital firm RARE Investments, Rekha Jhunjhunwala, Abhay Chandak and Aditya Chandak respectively. KIFS Dealers and Lotus Family Trust will be allotted 50 lakh warrants in equal share. These warrants are convertible into equivalent numbers of equity shares.

Experts say this development is positive for DB Realty as the firm has ample land parcel and on-going projects in Mumbai. "Due to the scarcity of land in the island city, real estate developers having capabilities to handle redevelopment projects have immense potential. Such opportunities are likely to pay off in the future if ably executed. As per industry estimates, redevelopment projects in Mumbai could be worth nearly ₹30,000 cr. Thus, we are seeing many companies on a spree to raise capital and gather investor interest," said Prashant Thakur, Sr Director & Head - Research at ANAROCK Group.

From a peak liability of ₹4,142 cr, the company expects to be debt free in the near term. The focus... is to partner with large developers

India U-19 heroes feted at Ahmedabad

India's U-19 World Cup wining squad was on Wednesday felicitated by the BCCI on the sidelines of the second ODI here on Wednesday. The U-19 heroes, wearing blazers, first watched the second ODI at the Narendra Modi stadium from the stands, as they had a joyous time seeing their stars in presence of head coach Hrishikesh Kanitkar and the rest of support staff including NCA head VVS Laxman.

IPL FOCUS ON AUCTION

IN PART II OF IPL AUCTION BUILD-UP, HERE'S A LOOK AT WHAT TO EXPECT FROM SERIAL WINNERS LIKE MUMBAI & CHENNAI AT THE WEEKEND...

CSK

Players retained: Ravindra Jadeja (₹16 cr), MS Dhoni (₹12 cr), Moeen Ali (₹8 cr) Ruturaj Gaikwad (₹6 cr)

REMAINING SALARY PURSE: ₹48

Have a core to build their team around. They put a lot of emphasis on continuity, so expect them to go for K Gowtham, Deepak Chahar, Shardul Thakur and going by their past, they are likely to stock up players who are suited to the conditions in Chennai. In the past auctions, they have gone aggressively after Indian players and have added overseas flavour only in areas where there are not much local options. They have always sought overseas all-rounders, a top-order batter and a pacer at all point. With Moeen in the mix, they will seek three overseas players who will be regular before going for squad players.

MI

Players retained: Rohit Sharma (₹16 cr), Jasprit Burmah (₹12 cr), Suryakumar Yadav (₹8 cr) Kieron Pollard (₹6 cr)

REMAINING SALARY PURSE: ₹48

Like continuity, but at the same time always on the search for an upgrade. They showed their ruthlessness by letting go off Hardik Pandya and Ishan Kishan. These are not only difficult calls, but ones which could end up strengthening opponents. Mumbai are one team who do their homework really well ahead. They are a side that gives as much space to data and with a strong scouting system around, they will not shy away from spending big on their first-choice players. In a full-fledged auction, there is a team to be built, so it will hard to second guess their game plan. If anything, they have been unpredictable in terms of going for lesser-known players.

DC

Players retained: Rishabh Pant (₹16 cr), Axar Patel (₹9 cr), Prithvi Shaw (₹7.5 cr) Anrich Nortje (₹6.5 cr)

REMAINING SALARY PURSE: ₹47.50

Have managed to retain exciting young trio and a pacer for all conditions. After consistently chopping and changing, off-late Delhi have careful in building a team. Their biggest strength over the last few seasons has been their squad depth, where there were multiple options for each spot. There was a local option and an overseas player for each of the main slots. However, the challenge here for them is whether they will be able to pick such a squad at a full-fledged auction. In refards to players too, they had a good mix of youngsters and experienced ones and preferred to invest a lot on Indian players who are regular in the national side.

KKR

Players retained: Andre Russell (₹12 cr), Varun Chakravarthy (₹8 cr), Venkatesh Iyer (₹8 cr) Sunil Narine (₹6 cr)

REMAINING SALARY PURSE: ₹48

By retaining three all-rounders, Kolkata don't need to sweat more on that aspect. Even their spin base is pretty much covered. In the last two full-fledged auctions, they had contrasting approaches. If they went for proven stars in 2011, they went for young players ahead of 2018 season. That they let go off someone like Shubman Gill is bit of a surprise as he could have been a captaincy candidate. The options in front of them are to go for proven names or still back their policy and invest in youth and support them with few experienced players. The other area they would like to be judicious is with their overseas imports.

SRH

Players retained: Kane Williamson (₹14 cr), Abdul Samad (₹4 cr), Umran Malik (₹4 cr)

REMAINING SALARY PURSE: ₹68

Safe to say, they are building a team from scratch. Tried hard to retain David Warner, but failed. So Williamson will be the face of the franchise. They also threw a surprise by retaining two young players, still unproven at this stage. They have a lot on their table in terms of options, and with a sizeable purse, will be interesting to see how they build the team. Hyderabad's biggest issue last season was the failure of the Indian players, who form the core of the team. Moreover, they were overreliant on overseas players, who at times didn't give the right balance. So it is essential they keep an eye on getting this aspect right. Have often gone into auctions to strengthen their bowling unit.

Krishna to the four as India win series

MARTIN JOSEPH @Kochi

AS far as experiments go, India's decision to make Rishabh Pant open the innings in the second ODI against West Indies caught everyone by surprise and generated a lot of headlines in a game which the hosts won by 44 runs and take an unassailable 2-0 lead in the three-match series.

Going into the game, the focus was on the return of vice-captain KL Rahul and where he would slot in the batting order. Instead, as India were put to bat first, the attention quickly shifted to Pant walking out alongside Rohit with Ishan Kishan making way.

After Rohit had departed early, the onus was on Pant to give India a good start but the latest experiment didn't yield the expected result as Pant's outing came to a quick end as he departed for 18 from 34 deliveries. He played 24 dot balls in the powerplay and rarely troubled a West Indies pace attack that had its tail up with the wicket offering seam and bounce. Virat Kohli failed to get going again with the bat for the second straight game. Kohli also fell in the same over as Pant with Odean Smith dismissing two of India's top guns and leaving them at 43 for 3 after just 12 overs. The middle-order came to India's rescue as Rahul who was dropped on four went about rebuilding India's innings with Suryakumar Yadav who is making his opportunities count.

India went onto post 237/9 and managed to successfully defend it as the bowlers led by Prasidh Krishna put in yet another impressive performance.

Prasidh picked up four wickets and troubled the Windies batters with his extra pace and bounce and it looked like the contest was over when they were 159/8 in the 40th over before Odean Smith threatened for a brief period.

Brief scores: India 237/9 in 50 ovs (Suryakumar 64, Rahul 49) bt WI 193 in 46 ovs (Brooks 44; Prasidh 4/12).

TSENG BEGINNING TO FIND HIS FEET

ASHIM SUNAM @Bengaluru

CHINESE Taipei tennis player Chun-hsin Tseng had a dream run in 2018, winning two junior Grand Slams in a year. He won the Wimbledon and French Open junior titles and finished runner-up at the junior Australian Open. In the process he joined an elite list of players with two junior slams in one season, comprising Andy Roddick, Pat Cash, Ivan Lendl among others.

Hence, there were high hopes from Tseng, who turned professional in 2019, but the transition was not smooth. The outbreak of Covid-19 did not help him. He did not play for almost half a year. Even when he started to travel abroad for competitions, it was not easy. "I struggled due to Covid (break). I could not play well. With various failures, I started watching videos of my matches and figured out the problem. At that time I was quite slow. After that I started to become aggressive and faster. Now, it is getting better," said Tseng.

The 20-year-old clinched his maiden Challenger late last year in Portugal. He also reached the quarterfinals of the Bengaluru Open after defeating Hugo Grenier of France (6-1, 6-4) here on Wednesday.

Tseng, who started playing tennis with his father as a five-year-old, is thankful to his parents for what he is today. His parents had a roadside food stall at Lehua night market in Taipei, but as their son turned his attention to tennis, business savings were used for training expenses. His country's tennis federation also helped with finances.

Indian pairs shine

On a day when many seeded single players exited Bengaluru Open, doubles top seed from India Jeevan Nedumchezhiyan and Purav Raja beat Borna Gojo and Dimitar Kuzmanov 6-4, 6-7 (2), 10-8 to advance. The other Indian pairs — Saketh Myneni/ Ramkumar Ramanathan and N Sriram Balaji/Vishnu Vardhan — also won their respective matches on Wednesday.

Batra & Mehta spar over email id

INDRANEEL DAS @Chennai

IT seems the Indian Olympic Association (IOA) is accepting that there is no Executive Council (EC) as of now. IOA secretary general on Wednesday claimed there is no EC as its tenure got over after four years on December 14 last year. Interestingly, both president and secretary general are part of the EC and it needs to be seen how day-to-day activities of the IOA is functioning. According to some IOA members, the tenure is from election to election. Another practice is to call for a general body meeting (special) to extend the tenure of the EC.

In another bizarre twist, the IOA president and secretary general are locked in a ugly and bitter tussle. This even as Delhi High Court is hearing a petition challenging election over its constitution, which according to the petitioner violates the Sports Code on 13 points.

A day after accreditation for the Asian and Commonwealth Games intimation letter was released by the IOA, president Narinder Batra invalidated the IOA email-id and the IOA website. Secretary general Rajeev Mehta called Batra's move illegal and unconstitutional. Mehta said that whatever the president had done is illegal.

In his police complaint, Batra alleged that someone was impersonating him and sending mails from IOA's official id — ioa@olympics.ind.in. Batra filed a police complaint saying, "It has been brought to my notice that a person is impersonating me as President, Indian Olympic Association and sending emails." He even invalidated its official email id and the its website.

According to a circular to IOA members, Batra said that the email id and the website will cease to exist with immediate effect. This was a fallout after the email id ioa@olympics.ind.in password was apparently not shared with the president. Batra said that he has the mandate of 18 out of the 31 EC members to take this decision.

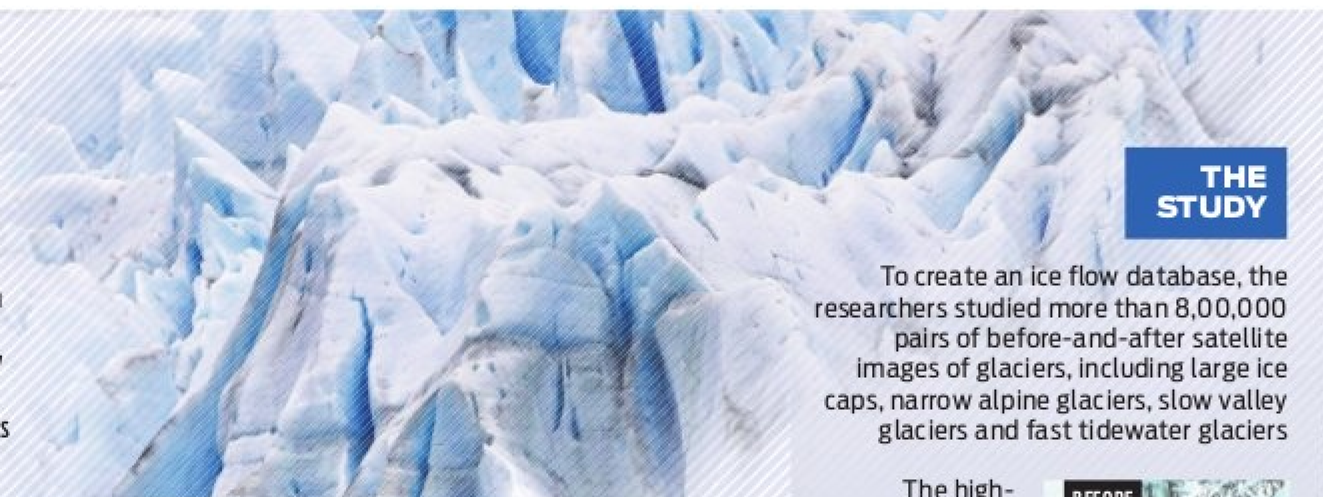
GLACIERS RETREAT AND UNCERTAINTIES ADVANCE

Recently researchers reported in the journal Nature Geoscience that mountain glaciers that are shrinking due to climate change are less voluminous than previously understood, putting millions who depend on them for water supply at risk. For instance, glaciers in the Andes Mountains of South America were found to store 23% less fresh water when compared to earlier estimates. Here's a look at the study



SHRINKING GLACIERS

As the slow-moving rivers of ice lose more mass through melt-off than they gain with fresh snow, water flows become irregular—including periods of flooding—and eventually dry up, first in low altitude mountains, and eventually in higher ones

11% SMALLER THAN ESTIMATES The satellite-based survey covering 98% of the world's glaciers—around 2,50,000—found that the volume of all glaciers combined, above and below sea level, was 11% smaller than earlier calculations

ARE ALL GLACIERS SHRINKING?

No. Few regions, including the Himalayan mountains, were found to have up to a third more ice than thought, reducing the pressure on water resources. However, a recent research led by Maine University found that the highest glacier in the Himalayas—the South Col Glacier—has lost more than 54m thickness

SILVER LINING

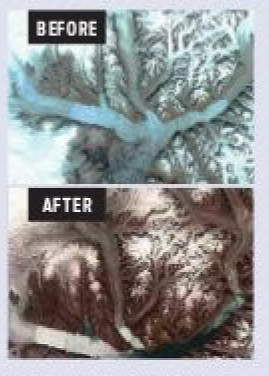
On the flip side, lower volumes will reduce the sea-level rise in the world, projected to be among the most devastating consequences of global warming

Throughout the 20th century, melting glaciers was one of the main causes of rising ocean levels, along with the expansion of sea water as it warms

THE STUDY

To create an ice flow database, the researchers studied more than 8,00,000 pairs of before-and-after satellite images of glaciers, including large ice caps, narrow alpine glaciers, slow valley glaciers and fast tidewater glaciers

The high-resolution images, captured by NASA and European Space Agency satellites, required more than one million hours of computational time on super-computers in Grenoble, France



Images from NASA show the transformation of Green glaciers over the span of 50-years

FROM 33 TO 26 CM

The new estimate lowers the potential contribution of glaciers to sea-level rise from about 33 to 26 centimetres. But that reduction—while not insignificant—is incidental compared to the impact of melting ice sheets, which have become the main cause of rising sea levels in the 21st century

THREAT FROM ICE SHEET MELT

The kilometres-thick blankets of ice atop West Antarctica and Greenland hold enough frozen water to lift oceans some 13 metres. We generally think about glaciers as solid ice that may melt in summer, but ice actually flows like thick syrup under its own weight

GLACIERS ARE CRUCIAL

Water formed from glaciers flowing into rivers is important for hydropower generation and agriculture. Bolivia's largest city La Paz, with more than two million inhabitants, is highly dependent on glacier runoff for agriculture and as a buffer against drought

> Because there is less ice stored in the world's glaciers than we had thought they will disappear earlier than expected, and so the communities that depend on their ice and water will experience the worst effects of climate change sooner

Scientists in UK smash fusion energy record

RESEARCH

ABINGDON: Scientists in Britain said on Wednesday that they have smashed a previous record for generating fusion energy, an achievement hailed as a "milestone" on the protracted path towards harnessing a power source considered cheap and clean.

Nuclear fusion is the same process that the sun uses to generate heat and proponents believe it could one day help address climate change by providing an abundant, safe and green source of energy.

A team at the Joint European Torus (JET) facility near Oxford in central England generated 59 megajoules of sustained energy during an experiment in December, more than doubling a 1997 record, the UK Atomic Energy Authority said.

The results "are the clearest demonstration worldwide of the potential for fusion energy to deliver safe and sustainable low-carbon energy," the agency added in a statement.

The donut-shaped machine used for the experiments is called a tokamak, and the JET site is the largest operational one in the world.

Inside, a tiny amount of fuel comprising deuterium and tritium—both are isotopes of hydrogen, with deuterium also called heavy hydrogen—is heated to temperatures 10 times hotter than the centre of the sun to create plasma.

This is held in place using superconductor electromagnets as it spins around, fuses and releases tremendous energy as heat. Fusion is inherently safe in that it cannot start a run-away process.

Pound for pound (gram for gram) it releases nearly four million times more energy than burning coal, oil or gas, and creates virtually no waste.

Ground-breaking

The results announced on Wednesday demonstrate the ability to create fusion for five seconds, but longer times will be needed for the process to become viable as a conventional power source.

"If we can maintain fusion for five seconds, we can do it for five minutes and then five hours as we scale up our operations in future machines," said Tony Donne of the EUROfusion consortium.

A larger and more advanced version of JET is currently being built in southern France, called ITER, where the Oxford data will prove vital when it comes online, possibly as soon as 2025.

Meanwhile, so-called DEMO fusion power plants to supply electricity to the grid are being developed alongside tokamak research devices such as JET and ITER.

International cooperation on fusion energy has historically been close because, unlike the nuclear fission used in atomic power plants, the technology cannot be weaponised. The France-based megaproject involves China, the European Union, India, Japan, Korea, Russia and the US.

Rich nations should pay for Covid plan: WHO

Vast vax inequity is risking the emergence of new, dangerous variants

COVID

GENEVA: The World Health Organization on Wednesday urged rich countries to pay their fair share of the money needed for its plan to conquer Covid-19 by contributing $16 billion as a matter of urgency.

The WHO said the rapid cash injection into its Access to Covid Tools Accelerator could finish off Covid as a global health emergency this year.

The WHO-led ACT-A is aimed at developing, producing, procuring and distributing tools to tackle the pandemic: vaccines, tests, treatments and personal protective equipment.

ACT-A gave birth to the Covax facility, designed to ensure poorer countries could access eventual vaccines, correctly predicting that richer nations would hog doses coming off the production lines.

Covax delivered its billionth vaccine dose in mid-January.

ACT-A needed $23.4 billion for its programme for the year October 2021-September 2022 but only $800 million has been raised so far.

The scheme therefore wants $16 billion up front from wealthy nations "to close the immediate financing gap", with the rest to be self-funded by middle-income countries.

WHO chief Tedros Adhanom Ghebreyesus said the rapid spread of Omicron made it all the more urgent to ensure tests, treatments and vaccines are distributed equitably.

"Science gave us the tools to fight Covid-19; if they are shared globally in solidarity, we can end Covid-19 as a global health emergency this year," he said.

Just 0.4 per cent of the 4.7 billion Covid-19 tests administered across the world during the pandemic have been used in low-income countries.

Meanwhile only 10 per cent of people in those nations have received at least one coronavirus vaccine dose.

The WHO said the vast inequity was not only costing lives and hurting economies, it was also risking the emergence of new, more dangerous variants that could rob current tools of their effectiveness and set even highly-vaccinated populations back by many months.

Half million deaths since Omicron variant

The health organisation also lamented that half a million Covid-19 deaths had been recorded since the Omicron variant was discovered, calling the toll "beyond tragic".

The WHO's incident manager Abdi Mahamud said that 130 million cases and 5,00,000 deaths had been recorded globally since Omicron was declared a variant of concern. It has since rapidly overtaken Delta as the dominant Covid variant since it is more transmissible, though it appears to cause less severe illness.

"In the age of effective vaccines, half a million people dying, it's really something," Mahamud told a live interaction on the health organisation's social media channels. "While everyone was saying Omicron is milder, (they) missed the point that half a million people have died since this was detected," he said. Maria Van Kerkhove, the WHO's technical lead on Covid, said the number of known Omicron cases was "astounding", while the true number would be much higher.

Isolation rule in England might end in March

England will scrap the legal requirement to self-isolate after testing positive for Covid-19 later this month if infection levels remain stable, PM Boris Johnson announced on Wednesday. The proposed move would be one of the most dramatic easings taken by any country so far in the pandemic, as Johnson doubles down on a strategy of trying to "live with Covid". However it is likely to prove controversial, with health experts warning much of the world still needs to be vaccinated.

Child illiteracy booms in Brazil with Covid-19

The number of Brazilian children aged six and seven who do not know how to read or write has risen by 66% during the pandemic, a report found on Tuesday. The report, by All for Education, found the number of illiterate six- and seven-year-olds in Brazil rose from 1.4 million in 2019 to 2.4 million last year. That represents 40.8 % of kids in that age group—a worrying sign for a nation that has been hit hard by Covid-19, with widespread school closures that have been particularly detrimental for the poor.

Indonesia's own vax trials begin

SURABAYA: Indonesia began testing a homegrown Covid-19 vaccine on humans on Wednesday after getting the green light from the drug regulator as the country faces a rising wave of coronavirus cases. Research on the "Merah Putih" ("Red White") vaccine—named after the colours of the Indonesian national flag—is led by Airlangga University and Biotis Pharmaceutical Indonesia. The project has suffered delays since starting in 2020, but authorities are now hoping to authorise its use by the middle of 2022.

Insect cure for wounds: The curious case of Gabon chimps

WILDLIFE

WASHINGTON: How does one treat a wound? For we humans, the first instinct would be to disinfect it and then cover it with a bandage.

But chimpanzees have invented a much more creative method: catching insects and applying them directly to the open wound. The scientists observed that this behaviour in chimpanzees in the West African nation of Gabon, noticing that the apes not only use insects to treat their own wounds, but also those of their peers.

The research, published on Monday in the journal Current Biology, marks an important contribution to ongoing scientific debate about the ability of chimpanzees—and of animals in general—to selflessly help each other.

"When you're going to school and you read in your biology books about the amazing things that animals can do," Simone Pika, a biologist at the University of Osnabruck in Germany and a co-author of the study, told AFP. "I think it could really be something like that that will end up in those books."

The project began in 2019, when an adult female chimpanzee named Suzee was observed inspecting a wound on the foot of her adolescent son.

Suzee then suddenly caught an insect out of the air, put it in her mouth, apparently squeezed it, and then applied it to her son's wound. After extracting the insect from the wound, she applied it two more times.

The scene unfolded in Loango National Park on Gabon's Atlantic coast, where researchers are studying a group of 45 central chimpanzees, an endangered species.

Over the following 15 months, scientists saw chimpanzees administer the same treatment on themselves at least 19 times.

And on two other occasions they observed injured chimpanzees being treated in the same way by one or several fellow apes.

The wounds, sometimes several centimeters wide, can come from conflicts between members of same or an opposing group.

Far from protesting the treatment, the bruised chimpanzees were happy to be tended to.

"It takes lot of trust to put an insect in an open wound," said Pika. "They seem to understand that if you do this to me with this insect, then my wound gets better. It's amazing."

Researchers have not been able to identify what bug was used on the wounds, but they believe it to be a flying insect given the chimpanzees' rapid movement to catch it. Pika says the insect could contain anti-inflammatory substances that have a soothing effect on the chimpanzees.

Insects are known to have various medical properties and researches will need to conduct more work to detect and study the insect in question.

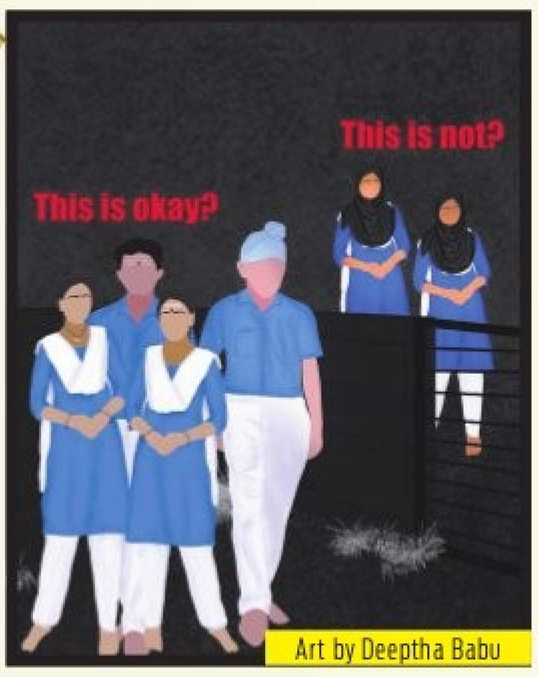
UNVEILING VIEWS

In the wake of the ongoing hijab row in Karnataka, city-based artists are showing their solidarity towards the issue through art



This is okay?
This is not?

"We are only asking for our FUNDAMENTAL RIGHTS"

Art by Kruthika

MONIKA MONALISA

My work is a part of the reel that was created a month ago, when six girls from Udupi insisted on wearing a hijab in class

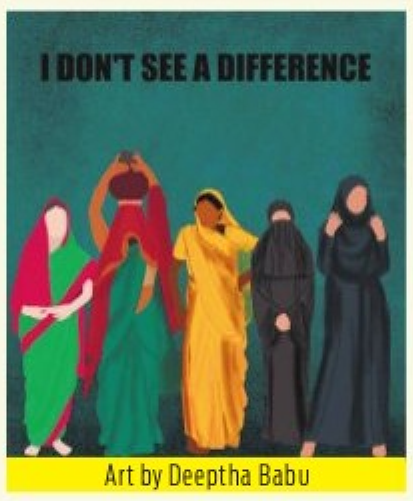
Kruthika, illustrator

In today's world, where the internet is everything, having an opinion that is heard through art makes a difference

Deeptha Babu, graphic designer

A HINDU with a liberal upbringing and a convent education, 27-year-old Kruthika was deeply affected by the news of Muslim students in Kundapur Junior College being denied entry for wearing a hijab. Kruthika, a lawyer by profession who moonlights as an illustrator, turned to art to express her disdain at the current climate. Her artwork portrays two girls wearing hijabs and holding a book that says, 'We are only asking for our fundamental rights'. This statement has resonated with many clearly as the work has gone viral on social media.

She says the art is a part of the reel that she had created a month ago when six students from Government PU College of Girls, Udupi, insisted on wearing a hijab in class. "I had made it even before the situation escalated to what it is today," says Kruthika, who goes by the handle @theworkplacedoodler on Instagram. She says many might argue that the hijab may not be a part of the uniform, but there are religious indicators that other students come with that are not questioned the same way.



I DON'T SEE A DIFFERENCE

Art by Deeptha Babu

Agrees Deeptha Babu, social activist and graphic designer who is in her final year of studies at PES University. "Getting an education is a basic human right. Stopping someone because of their religious beliefs is just shameful and unnecessary. I literally went to a school where we had a small temple-like prayer room. Then why can't Muslim girls wear their hijabs?," questions Babu, whose art shows different women wearing different attires, a saree, veil, hijab etc. It has been captioned, 'I don't see a difference' and is being widely circulated online.

Babu feels art, especially on the internet, is one of the best ways to raise awareness. "My post received 1 lakh shares, which simply means that people are willing to talk about it and make a difference, that people are willing to share their thoughts and stand up for what is right. In today's world, where the internet is everything, having an opinion that is heard through art makes a difference. It may be small, but it is still moving forward," says the 22-year-old.

Meanwhile, artist Shilo Shiv Suleman who shared Hyderabad artist Faiza Hasan's artwork, Haq, on her Instagram handle, put out a post that Fearless Collective, an art movement, would be launching a campaign in solidarity of Muslim women in India. Taking to Instagram, she also shared her feelings on the issue. "A few years ago I started to write a story about a world that was no longer safe for muslim women, so they called upon the buraq and grew magnificent wings and flew into a safer more tender world. As women across the country continue to be dehumanised- I stand in solidarity with that safer (tender) world of autonomy and diversity. haq. may truth, beauty and freedom prevail. (sic)."

Netizens are up in arms about Hyundai's recent social media posts on 'Kashmir Solidarity Day'. Brand experts explain why foreign companies should avoid meddling with geopolitics

Breaking brands

SANATH PRASAD

WHILE corporate activism is good, what happens when geopolitics enters the picture? In light of the ongoing controversy involving Hyundai which advertised on Kashmir Solidarity Day, Bengaluru-based brand and advertisement experts emphasise that 'unwarranted' corporate activism can go wrong in many ways. Experts explain that foreign brands meddling with political issues of India can lead to serious repercussions. Especially an issue involving Kashmir can create a row like the one going on right now.

Experts believe that Hyundai is very sentimental to Indian families and for a brand like that to 'go against' India, was shocking. Subhabrata Ghosh, CEO at Celsius100 Consulting, who has worked on advertisement campaigns with Hyundai Motors for 10 years, feels that the 'lack of an effective responsive mechanism' from the brand cost them big time. "I was aghast at the slow process of responding and clarifying the matter by the brand. Hyundai is more like an Indian company now, and with this post, it's a betrayal of trust. The company should have cleared the air and got their facts right, immediately after the post went viral. And to base it on an issue like Kashmir, which is a boiling pot, is dangerous," says Ghosh, who was the founder of Saatchi & Saatchi in India.

Malavika Harita, an advertising expert, who has worked with Hyundai in launching i10 in India, believes a brand should just stick to marketing, without going overboard with political and geopolitical issues. "For a foreign brand like Hyundai which is very careful about what they put out on social media, this post was uncalled for. They should stick to marketing alone and do what they do best – selling cars. Also, public memory is very short-lived. The boycott campaign against Hyundai and other foreign brands will eventually fizzle out," says Harita.

Brand specialist Harish Bijoor believes that global brands should stop their obsession with local jingoism and focus on global jingoism. "The business of business is business. My advice to any brand is, 'Mind your own business'. As a brand you cannot stray away from your real business and act like a political activist. It is important that global brands don't touch upon religion, politics and now geopolitics and behave like a pocket brand of a particular region. I am sure this trend would have led to cancellation in car bookings last week," says Bijoor.

Hyundai Motor Company has now issued a statement clarifying that the independently-owned distributor in Pakistan posted unauthorised Kashmir-related social media posts from their own accounts. The company also stated that measures have been taken to remove the posts and rejected the distributor's non-business related social media activity.

The business of business is business. My advice to any brand is, 'Mind your own business'. As a brand you cannot stray away from your real business and act like a political activist

– Harish Bijoor, brand specialist

WHAT'S GOING ON

For the uninitiated, February 5 is observed as 'Kashmir Solidarity Day' in Pakistan. Capitalising on this, was an official Hyundai Pakistan social media account that shared a post supporting the Day. This angered many in India with netizens attacking the brand for 'betraying' India, which is the second largest market for the Korean company. What followed was a boycott campaign against brands like KIA, KFC, Pizza Hut which shared similar posts supporting 'Kashmir Day'. Some netizens also took to Twitter to announce that they would cancel their car bookings and switch loyalty to other automobile brands after seeing the social media post.

Sense and sensibility

Dancer Rukmini Vijayakumar's latest dance piece, which will be staged tomorrow, revolves around first-hand stories she has experienced as a woman

MONIKA MONALISA

BHARATNATYAM dancer and choreographer Rukmini Vijayakumar's latest project holds a special place because it is something that is close to her heart. It's inspired by many "first-hand stories". Vijayakumar's choreography, which is scheduled to be performed at Ranga Shankara on Feb 11, for the 10th Attakkalari India Biennial, revolves around women 'owning their sensuality'. It is part of a three-part series called Desire with the upcoming piece called Abducted.

According to the dancer, a woman's body is 'objectified if she doesn't own it.' "Many abduction of girls takes place between the ages of 12 and 18, which is when they are most vulnerable. That is when sexual predators take most advantage," says Vijayakumar, whose piece has Indian contemporary and Bharatnatyam movements. Although different cultures have different ways of exploring the subject, Vijayakumar has chosen Indian culture to narrate it. "In India, sensuality and sexuality are not frowned upon in mythology. We have Kali, who is sensual and powerful," she explains. Vijayakumar feels that this topic should not be considered taboo. "When a subject like this is considered taboo, people start getting uncomfortable with all kinds of questions coming into the picture," she says.

Rukmini Vijayakumar | Pic: SUNNY JAGESAR

The choreography was supposed to be staged in January 2021, but now it has gone through a lot of changes. "I am a very intuitive choreographer. I read a lot before finally choreographing. But a piece always comes together when I start work physically," says Vijayakumar, who recently started a hashtag on her Instagram handle called #100daysofinnerstrength.

Last year was tough on her with the loss of her father. Having been listening to a lot of positive talks, especially the Bhagavad Gita, she realised a positive thought can change a person if they allow it to. "We have come across hashtags like #100daysofsix packs or #10daysofsplit. We always think of ourselves as those without a stable mind. Through this piece, I'm just looking at what I can do better as a person," says Vijaykumar, whose year is packed with a lot of performances and tours starting in May. Apart from choreographing, she is also looking forward to two of her short films coming out this year.

(Abducted will be staged on Feb 11 at Ranga Shankara, 7:30pm onwards)

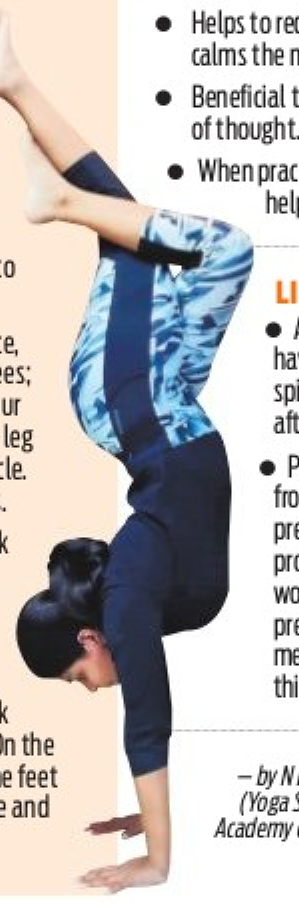
PADA GARUDASANA IN ADHO MUKHA VRIKSHASANA

(POSE DEDICATED TO GARUDA IN DOWNWARD FACING TREE POSE)

In Sanskrit, 'pada' means foot or leg, 'garuda' denotes to the Hindu deity who is half-man & half-eagle, carrier of Lord Vishnu, 'adho' means downward, 'mukha' means facing, 'vriksha' means tree, and 'asana' means pose. It develops the body harmoniously. This strengthens the shoulders, arms and wrists and fully expands the chest. Traditionally, it opens three Chakras, i.e., the Sahasrara (Crown) Chakra, which brings balance and peace to the body and mind.

STEPS

- Start by standing in Tadasana (Mountain Pose). Engage your Mula Bandha, Uddhiyana Bandha and Ujjayi breathing.
- Then exhale and hinge from the hips, lean forward, placing your palms on the floor on the outside of your feet. Keep your hands shoulder width apart or slightly wider. Make sure the arms are straight, and the shoulders are over the fingertips.
- There are several ways to get into Adho Mukha Vrikssasana (Handstand). Make sure you can balance your hands against the wall for at least 1 minute. Press strongly into the hands.
- Once you find your balance, exhale and bend your knees; cross the right leg over your left leg, bending the right leg around your left calf muscle. Hold for 30 to 90 seconds.
- Inhale, bring the legs back to the straight position. Exhale and switch legs. Hold for 30 to 90 seconds.
- Inhale, bring the legs back to the straight position. On the following inhale, lower the feet to the floor. Finally, inhale and return to Tadasana.



BENEFITS

- It strengthens hands, wrists, shoulders, spine and bones.
- Helps to promote digestion and aids in heart health.
- Helpful in improving circulation in the body.
- This asana also helps to improve balance.
- Regular practice of this asana helps to relieve stress.
- Helps to reduce anxiety and calms the mind.
- Beneficial to improve clarity of thought.
- When practiced regularly, it helps deal with fear.

LIMITATIONS

- Avoid this if you have any injury, spinal, problems or after a recent surgery.

MEN'S HEALTH

If you are experiencing these symptoms, make sure not to ignore them

DR GOVARDHAN REDDY

HEALTH is not gender-specific. It is important for everyone to get a regular check-up regardless of age and gender. Multiple studies show that men are ignorant about health and are highly susceptible to a lot of health problems. However, feeling healthy and being healthy are different terms, and ignoring symptoms until it gets worse can complicate the body. To lead a healthy life, we have to work on our body while we are young. Hitting 40 also indicates health has a pivotal role and ignoring it might cost our lives. If you experience any of these signs, consider getting a health check-up done immediately.

Difficulty in passing urine

Frequent urine, feeling thirsty, pain while passing urine, are some of the signs that could possibly indicate signs of trouble. For example, a blood spot in urine can be a sign of some infection, or in some cases, be one of the early signs of prostate cancer or kidney stones. Frequent visits to the loo can be a sign of a bladder infection, urinary tract infection, diabetes, or indicate something wrong with your kidneys or the heart. This is one of the main signs of prostate cancer, which is the most diagnosed cancer in all men. Common signs and symptoms of Benign prostatic hyperplasia (BPH) include frequent or urgent need to urinate, increased frequency of urination at night (nocturia), difficulty starting urination, dribbling at the end of urination, and incapability to fully clear the bladder.

Enlarged testicles and moles

The testicles are very sensitive, and even a minor injury can cause testicle pain or discomfort. Having enlarged testicles is one of the main symptoms of testicular cancer. It is one of the rare diseases. Testicular lumps are common for those aged between 15 years to 34 years. Any moles or changes in skin texture, lumps, or swelling in other parts of the body should not be ignored for long as well. A few signs of testicular cancer include a lump or enlargement in either testicle, a feeling of heaviness in the scrotum, a dull ache in the abdomen or groin, sudden collection of fluid in the scrotum, pain or discomfort in a testicle or the scrotum. It is curable if treated at an early stage.

Erectile dysfunction

Diseases that can cause erectile dysfunction include diabetes, heart disease, atherosclerosis, kidney disease, neurologic disease, chronic alcoholism, multiple sclerosis, and vascular disease. These conditions affect a man's ability to achieve an erection by damaging nerves, smooth muscles, arteries, and tissues. Erectile dysfunction is a common issue men face with age, but a lot of people do not consider it as a medical condition. Conditions like severe diabetes, any form of addiction lead to erectile dysfunction. Stress is another reason for this.

Excessive thirst

It's important to intake 2-3 litres of water (or at least 8-10 glasses) every day. While it's common to feel thirsty some days, chronically experiencing excessive thirst or drinking too much water in a day may be a warning sign of hyperglycemia. A family with a diabetes history should get checked immediately and follow up with the doctor. A man should drink lots of water to maintain his health. However, excessive thirst is also an indication of possible internal bleeding, severe infection, or a failure of the heart, liver, or kidneys.

Low Testosterone

Testosterone plays a vital role in men's bodies, including muscle and bone health, cognition, red blood cell, and sperm formation, and sexual and reproductive function in males. However, testosterone levels can decline for various reasons, including stress, ageing, and certain health conditions, such as hypogonadism. Symptoms include extra body weight, loss of muscle, low sex drive, low ejaculation volume, and deprived sleep. Though hair loss is hereditary, low testosterone also plays a role.

BHU scientists suggest new approach for painless chemotherapy in cancer treatment

Scientists at Banaras Hindu University (BHU) have come up with a new method to reduce pain during cancer treatment through chemotherapy. The team comprises Nimisha Verma, Department of Anaesthesiology, Institute of Medical Sciences, Banaras Hindu University and Vinod Tiwari, Department of Pharmaceutical Engineering, Indian Institute of Engineering, BHU. They have come up with a novel solution through genetic engineering and nanotechnology. "A collaborative research conducted by them, has found that it may be possible to cure CINP by genetically manipulated and delivered siRNA to target sites by nanotechnology. The research involves the blocking of expression of TRPVI receptor through a small interfering RNA molecule (siRNA). The novel siRNA formulation suggested by the ongoing research has shown quick management of pain without side-effects," said a statement from BHU. —IANS

Air quality not impacted by industrial emission alone: Study

A recent study by three scientists on the adverse impact on air quality because of industrial emissions, has cleared many long-standing misgivings. And, that includes the fact that industries are the biggest polluter of the environment. The report literally cleared the air after the authors RL Verma of the Asian Institute of Technology, Bangkok, Thailand, JS Kamyotra, freelance consultant, New Delhi, and Balram Ambade, National Institute of Technology, Jamshedpur, Jharkhand, did a detailed study on the air quality of Thoothukudi (former Tuticorin). The authors compared the air quality and air quality index (AQI) of Thoothukudi with those of other industrial clusters of Tamil Nadu, and with the four major metros on various parameters. — IANS

SOULFUL

Right kind of education

THE ignorant man is not the unlearned, but he who does not know himself, and the learned man is stupid when he relies on books, on knowledge and on authority to give him understanding. Understanding comes only through self-knowledge, which is awareness of one's total psychological process. Thus, education, in the true sense, is the understanding of oneself, for it is within each one of us that the whole of existence is gathered.

What we now call education is a matter of accumulating information and knowledge from books, which anyone can do who can read. Such education offers a subtle form of escape from ourselves and, like all escapes, it inevitably creates increasing misery. Conflict and confusion result from our own wrong relationship with people, things and ideas, and until we understand that relationship and alter it, mere learning, the gathering of facts and the acquiring of various skills, can only lead us to engulfing chaos and destruction.

As society is now organised, we send our children to school to learn some technique by which they can eventually earn a livelihood. We want to make the child first and foremost a specialist, hoping thus to give him a secure economic position. But does the cultivation of a technique enable us to understand ourselves?

While it is obviously necessary to know how to read and write, and to learn engineering or some other profession, will technique give us the capacity to understand life? Surely, technique is secondary; and if technique is the only thing we are striving for, we are obviously denying what is by far the greater part of life.

Life is pain, joy, beauty, ugliness, love, and when we understand it as a whole, at every level, that understanding creates its own technique. But the contrary is not true: technique can never bring about creative understanding.

Present-day education is a complete failure because it has overemphasised technique. In overemphasising technique we destroy man. To cultivate capacity and efficiency without understanding life, without having a comprehensive perception of the ways of thought and desire, will only make us increasingly ruthless, which is to engender wars and jeopardize our physical security. The exclusive cultivation of technique has produced scientists, mathematicians, bridge builders, space conquerors; but do they understand the total process of life? Can any specialist experience life as a whole? Only when he ceases to be a specialist.

Technological progress does solve certain kinds of problems for some people at one level, but it introduces wider and deeper issues too. To live at one level, disregarding the total process of life, is to invite misery and destruction. The greatest need and most pressing problem for every individual is to have an integrated comprehension of life, which will enable him to meet its ever-increasing complexities.

‘LOVE MOCKTAIL 2 IS BEST EXPERIENCED AS AN INDIVIDUAL FILM’

A SHARADHAA

In conversation with CE, Krishna and Milana Nagaraj talk about the sequel, the process behind the making, and how it is always a challenge to keep up with the audience’s faith

Krishna and Milana Nagaraj

A still from the film Love Mocktail 2

FEBRUARY seems to be a lucky month for the Love Mocktail couple of Krishna and Milana Nagaraj. The duo’s Love Mocktail was released in February 2020, and then, the reel-life couple became a real-life couple after they tied the knot in February 2021, and now, they are set to release the sequel to Love Mocktail this month on February 11.

The overwhelmingly positive reception for Love Mocktail has only raised the expectations for the 2022 sequel. But, did this increase the responsibility for Krishna, who is not just the writer and director, but is also backing the film along with Milana? “High expectations will lead to market growth, and as producers, we are already safe. But as a writer and director, there is anxiety as to how the sequel will be accepted. Having said that, in a way, I had definitely moved on from the first part when I started scripting for the sequel,” says Krishna, who mentions he has put the same honest effort that went behind the making of his debut directorial.

Milana says, “Krishna has taken less pressure with the Love Mocktail sequel because he is confident about the film’s content, and how it has shaped up. But for both of us, keeping up with the audience’s faith is a challenge.”

Krishna, admits that he is not a regular writer, and it is usually Milana who does the actual writing because his handwriting is bad. He also has his own style of direction. “Till date, I don’t really have an in-depth understanding of the making of a film. For me, I want to tell a story in a simple way, and my focus is on explaining it with the right kind of emotions. The audience should connect with the story, which is presented with a good narrative,” says Krishna.

As a writer, Krishna feels that penning humour is easier than writing emotional episodes “There is an emotional scene, which took me at least 8 months to get it right. I usually take time to write scenes that require heightened emotions, and I prefer to write it alone, and in my own pace,” he mentions. They do agree that acting in the scenes written by them is an advantage. “We become each other’s mirror. It will help us to gauge the sequences, and decide if it will go with the narrative and the character arcs,” explains Milana.

Love Mocktail 2 distributed by KRG Studios also stars Rachel David as the female lead, and features Sushmitha, Abilash, and Kushee Achar in pivotal roles. Nakul Abhyankar has scored the music for the film, and Sri Crazy Minds has handled the cinematography.

Unlike Love Mocktail, which traced the journey of Adi from his school days to his college life and marriage, the sequel doesn’t have this vast a time frame. Krishna says, “The sequel happens over a span of 15 days, and it is way more compact than the first part.”

Signing off, Milana points out that comparisons between the two parts might be inevitable but audiences should see Love Mocktail as an individual film. “The film will be better enjoyed if the audiences are not curious to know the story. Instead, just head to theatres and enjoy all of it on the big screen.”

RISHAB SHETTY SHOOTS KAMBALA RACE FOR KANTARA

The film is billed to be an action-thriller with elements of fantasy

CE FEATURES

Rishab Shetty

EVEN as Rishab Shetty is receiving plaudits for his work in Raj B Shetty’s Garuda Gamana Vrishaba Vahana, the actor-director is quick to get back to his next, as he has finished shooting almost 85 per cent of his upcoming directorial, Kantara.

Based on human versus nature conflict, Kantara is backed by Hombale Films and features Sapthami Gowda in the female lead along with Kishore, Achyuth Kumar, Pramod Shetty, and Prakash Thuminad in important roles.

Rishab, who is currently in Kundapura, shared with CE that Kantara is turning out to be a film on a big scale, and is now heading towards shooting the climax of the film. “We needed to shoot the portions at different seasons, and we began with some major portions during the rainy season, and later covered some action sequences,” explains Rishab, who added that the film is set in the 90s period, and the team created a mysterious forest-like setup in his hometown of Keradi. “We have completed 65 days of shoot and are left with another 25 days. We hope to complete shooting the entire film by the end of March.”

A still from the film Kantara

The interest in Kantara was piqued by the poster that featured him as a raging farmer racing his bulls. Rishab reveals that he recently filmed the Kambala race, which will be one of the highlights of Kantara. He also mentioned undergoing training to be a Buffalo jockey. “Since this is a period film, I had to go by the traditional Kambala race, which involved me to stand on the wooden blocks and hold the buffalo by its tail while racing. We had a lot of rehearsals before we shot the race portions. Since I come from the same town, I had experience with agriculture. I am glad that I managed to do this sequence myself without having to get a body double,” says Rishab.

The actor-director is targeting July as the release date of Kantara. “Every stunt in this action thriller is being done without using body-double,” says Rishab, who hints that the film will be an adrenaline rush, and have elements of fantasy. Kantara will have music scored by Ajaneesh Loknath and cinematography by Arvind Kashyap.

Gurudutt, Ravichandran, N S Rajkumar and Janardhan Maharshi

RAVICHANDRAN AND CHI GURUDUTT’S FILM TITLED RAMYA RAMASWAMY

Penned by well-known writer Janardhan Maharshi, this project is billed to be a comedy entertainer with elements of sentiment

CE FEATURES

DIRECTOR Chi Gurudutt is set to direct Crazy Star Ravichandran for a film titled, Ramya Ramaswamy. This was announced by the production house Omkar Films. Producer NS Rajkumar and Ravichandran, who recently worked together in Kannadiga, are teaming up again. This will be the first association of Gurudutt and Ravichandran.

Penned by well-known writer Janardhan Maharshi, this comedy entertainer with elements of sentiment, will feature Ravichandran as Ramaswamy. We were told that the team is in the process of finalising a popular heroine to star opposite Ravichandran. Ramya Ramaswamy’s music will be scored by Ravi Basrur and cinematography will be handled by GSV Seetharam. Gurudutt will also be associating with Shivarajkumar for a project backed by Sandesh Production, an announcement of which was made a couple of days ago.

On the work front, Ravichandran, who was last seen in Drishya 2 is looking forward to the release of his upcoming directorial, Ravi Bopanna. The actor-director has reshot a few portions, and the film is now in the post-production stage. He is also playing a prominent role in the Darshan-starrer, Kranti, and will be joining the sets soon. His other projects include God, 60 and Bad Boys.

Writer-duo Isaac Aptaker and Elizabeth Berger, whose Amazon original, I Want You Back, is all set to premiere this Friday, discuss their decade-long partnership, writing process, and more

‘WE ARE ALWAYS IN SYNC’

RAM VENKAT SRIKAR

ISAAC Aptaker and Elizabeth Berger first met in 2005 at New York University’s Tish school while pursuing majors in dramatic writing. They wrote their first script together in college. Today, seventeen years later, the writing duo has acclaimed titles—across television and feature films—such as Love, Simon, its spin-off series Love, Victor, This is Us, and How I Met Your Father, to their credit, and are now awaiting the release of their next feature, the romantic comedy, I Want You Back. Having worked together on numerous projects over the years, are they able to read others’ minds by now? Elizabeth laughs and admits that they do. “You spend so much time together that if your thought processes do not align, it’s not going to work, and you will end up disliking your life. It’s really important to our relationship that we stay aligned; we see each other as much as we see our partners. We are always in sync, and we enjoy it.”

The acquaintance with each others’ writing styles doesn’t take away the element of surprise though. “There are always gonna be moments of surprises and moments that you don’t quite anticipate. We split our work into halves and work on it separately. When we combine them, it somehow feels like the same puzzle,” says Isaac.

Their next, I Want You Back, is a romantic comedy about a man and woman who bond over the process of pursuing their respective exes—as the title alludes to—after experiencing painful breakups. The film has a host of characters, people who are based on those around the writers. “We take inspiration from ourselves... our friends, our mistakes, misfortunes...” Elizabeth shares, with a wide smile. “I think we are always—especially with a movie like this—aiming to make these people relatable. Hopefully, people will go, ‘I know that person!’ or ‘Hey, that’s my idiot friend!’. We want our films to portray the lives of our viewers and the people they know.”

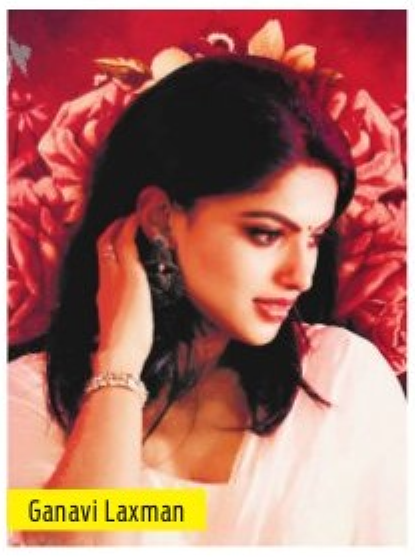
At one point in the film, Jenny Slate’s character offers comfort to a perplexed child by sharing that adults are as confused and uncertain as kids. This line—which encapsulates the essence of the film—is inspired by the duo’s own experiences, while scripting the film. Elizabeth shares, “We wrote this movie while attending dozens of meetings, driving around the town, and making a ton of mistakes. The combination of trying to act like grown-ups who are in complete control of their lives while, in reality, having no idea about what’s happening around, is a prevailing feeling in the film, and I suspect we were in a similar zone while penning it.”

AMAZON ORIGINAL MOVIE
I WANT YOU BACK

Modus operandi varies from writer to writer. Some create characters first and spin the world around them, while others tend to cultivate characters from the milieu of the story. For Isaac and Elizabeth though, thanks to their working style, it’s a combination of both, with characters and their world coming to life simultaneously. “We spend a lot of time understanding the ideas and characters of the film. If it’s a comedy, we try to make each other laugh to figure out what makes the film and its characters interesting. We then map out the whole story, and like Elizabeth said, we write in two chunks. Once we get near the 100-page mark, we collate our parts and begin rewriting and polishing until we think it might finally look good.”

Barring Love, Simon, and now, I Want You Back, Isaac and Elizabeth have predominantly worked in the long-format medium. “We love both features and series. There are some fundamental differences, of course—the pacing of the story and how long you live with these characters. There’s a satisfaction in telling a story in say, 90 minutes or two hours, where you have the opportunity to explore scenes and let every scene breathe, as opposed to a TV show, where you have to cram a lot into one episode. On the other hand, you also have to make a series that will have longevity and one that will allow you to spread the story in a completely different way. I think both have their own appeal; it’s just about tapping into different kinds of storytelling.” Isaac quickly adds, “This is why we do both; it’s fun to bounce back and forth.”

The duo had a fruitful (read ‘hectic’) 2021, completing work on the third season of Love, Victor and later, How I Met Your Father. In addition to I Want You Back—which Isaac says was written a while ago and was waiting for the cast to fall into place—they have also wrapped up their work on the sixth and final season of This is Us. Speaking about their headspace when there are as many characters and storylines to keep track of, Elizabeth tells with a laugh, “Right now, yes, it is all a little crazy. I Want You Back has been with us for a long time, and we are now so close to people finally getting to watch it. It’s exciting that we are nearing the finish line. But yes, it’s all bonkers!”



Ganavi Laxman

GANAVI LAXMAN’S BHAVA CHITRA TO RELEASE ON FEB 18

The film bill to be a techno-thriller is directed by Girish Kumar B

CE FEATURES

BHAVA Chitra, starring Ganavi Laxman and Yana-fame Chakravarthy, is set to hit theatres on February 18. Sharing the film’s poster, the production house officially confirmed the release date.

Directed by Girish Kumar B, Bhava Chitra is billed to be a techno-thriller, and also a travel-based film, which traces the journey of an amateur photographer. Though Ganavi Laxman was pegged to make her debut with Bhava Chitra, her sophomore film, Hero, was released first.

Extensively shot in different places of Karnataka, Bhava Chitra has music scored by Gautam Srivatsa and cinematography by Ajay Kumar.

Ganavi Laxman, who became a household name with her serial, Magalu Janaki, has made a transition from small screen to tinsel town. The actor’s next big break is Shivarajkumar’s Vedha, in which she plays the female lead.
